B.C. Civil Service Hails Move on Bargain Rights

Leaders of 11,800 B.C. civil servants were jubilant today over the possibility that collective bargaining, long sought by the B.C. government employees, may soon be a part of civil service administration in the province.

The prospect—voiced by officials of the B.C. Government Employees' Association—both in Victoria and Vancouver—came on the heels of an announcement in Ottawa Friday that a major overhaul, and streamlining of the federal civil service is in the offing.

Included in the shake-up would be a form of collective bargaining, recommended by the Civil Service Commission. "This is quite a morale booster," said Dennis Heinekey, Victoria association official.

Although the streamlining recommendations will not have any direct bearing on the administration in B.C., collective bargaining for federal civil servants would definitely affect us here.

'NOT LIKE ARMY'

"It would increase the possibility that the public would at last recognize that the civil service is not something like the army and entitled to the privileges of other groups, including collective bargaining," Mr. Heinekey said. "It would appear that the Conservative government has at last realized the civil service would become a more efficient."

ent and harmonious organization" if it were granted the rights of other labor groups. Association B.C. secretary Ed O'Connor declined to comment on the recommendations in general, adding, however, that "I don't believe any federal (civil service) shake-up would have any effect in B.C."

However, another Vancouver official of the BCGEA was "very hopeful we shall now get what we have been after for a long, long time."

SUNSHINE MAYBE

Cloudy skies tonight will give way to partial clearing Sunday, weatherman William Mackie said today.

"We might even have some sunshine," he said.

The improving weather will follow the passage of a small disturbance tonight, he said.

Winds will be southwesterly at 15 miles per hour, and temperatures will range between 38 and 48 degrees.

UNABLE TO ATTEND FUNERAL

(See Also Page 5)

Attorney General Robert Bonner was prevented from attending the funeral of Gordon Sloan in Victoria Friday when his chartered seaplane was forced down on the water near Whidbey Island.

Mr. Bonner was to have been a pallbearer at the funeral.

Speaking from Vancouver today, Mr. Bonner said he chartered a plane to Seattle in order to get back to Victoria in time for the funeral.

"The ceiling was so low the aircraft was forced down to about 50 feet off the water," he told the Times. "Then we made a forced landing on the water off Whidbey Island and I went ashore by boat."

"From there I drove to Everett and on to Vancouver by bus. It is a matter of deep regret to me that I was unable to attend the last rites for Mr. Sloan."

Mr. Bonner is remaining in Vancouver over the weekend and will return to Victoria Monday.

The attorney-general's place as a pallbearer was taken by Cmdr. Gar Dixon, secretary to Government House.

Miracle Escape In Air Crash

(Times News Services)

BUENOS AIRES—One man miraculously escaped death when an Argentine airliner crashed into the sea Friday night, killing 50 persons.

Robert Servente, his clothes burned and torn, was found four hours after the crash lying on the beach near the Argentine seaside resort of Mar del Plata.

"All others aboard the plane were trapped and drowned when it sank in 75 feet of water about 150 yards from shore. By midday, searchers had recovered 34 bodies."

Servente could not explain how he managed to escape. He said there was no indication of trouble before the twin-engined Curtiss Commando crashed.

The plane split in two when it hit, he said.

The airliner was on a special summertime vacation flight from Buenos Aires to Mar del Plata, 240 miles to the south, and then to Bahia Blanca, another 260 miles west.

It was coming in for a landing at Mar del Plata in windy and rainy weather when it smashed into the ocean.

NO FOREIGNERS

The airline said it carried 46 passengers and a crew of five.

A caretaker at a resort park said the plane apparently developed trouble as it came down for a landing, tried to regain altitude and then plunged into the sea.

Among those on the passenger list were Eduardo Braun Menendez, one of Argentina's most famous scientists, and Dr. Jose Mezzadra, another well-known scientist. There was no immediate confirmation that they actually had been aboard. The plane belonged to Austral Airlines.

WIRE BRIEFS

Riots in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (Reuters)—Riots broke out today in a working class district of the city in protest of police action against 5,000 strikers who have taken over the national meat-packing plant. Sympathy strikes by other workers also were reported.

B.C. Strike Ends

VANCOUVER (CP)—Employees of the Flavelle Cedar Division of the Canadian Collieries who have been on strike at the company's Port Moody mill near Vancouver since Wednesday, have voted to return to work on Monday.

$1M Damage in Fire

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A spectacular fire Friday night destroyed the Atlantic Harbort Industries plant at Donovan's, six miles from here, causing damage estimated at $1,000,000 and leaving 100 men without work.

U.K. Deputy Quits

LONDON (Reuters)—Allan Noble, retired navy commander and one of Britain's two deputy foreign ministers, today resigned his post because "I do not wish to spend the rest of my life in politics." He will be succeeded by John D. Profumo, 43, parliamentary undersecretary at the foreign office.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our Father, we turn to Thee because we are perplexed. As a church, we have so often failed Thee. Forgive our indifference. We have built great temples of worship, but have lost the zeal for the worshipper. Give us preachers and laymen who by their teaching and example will prove to the world that aside from God life is meaningless. Let our interest not be alone in increasing our membership, but rather let our supreme purpose be to lead souls into the new way of life, in Christ's name. Amen.

Russia may get the West out of patience, but not out of Berlin.

Seems we're all in suspense, along with Mister Gagliardi's suspension.

West Will Hold Berlin Position

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration has told Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan that the United States and its allies are determined to preserve their position and their rights in West Berlin.

This was disclosed today shortly after President Eisenhower conferred with the Soviet visitor for an hour and 45 minutes in his White House office.

Eisenhower and Mikoyan talked about the Berlin situation and several other issues in dispute between Russia and the United States.

Both agreed there had been a useful exchange of views. But the White House press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said no new proposals were made during the meeting. American officials had hoped Mikoyan might indicate a Soviet willingness to make concessions on Berlin and other German issues.

State Secretary Dulles and other officials participated in the conference in Eisenhower's office.

Dulles, it was learned, emphasized to Mikoyan in talks Friday that the U.S. has the solid support of its allies in its firm determination to remain in Berlin. He said the U.S. would not accept the substitute of the East German regime in East Berlin for the Soviet government insofar as relations between Russia and the Western powers are concerned.

Mikoyan, for his part, was reported as saying that Premier Nikita Khrushchev definitely intends to go through with his proposals to turn over Soviet powers in East Berlin to the East German government if the U.S., Britain and France have not accepted his proposal to end the four-country occupation of Berlin by May 27.

Russia Wants 'Counter-Offers'

But Mikoyan said repeatedly that the Soviet government does not regard the fixing of this deadline as an ultimatum, according to qualified informants.

At the same time the Soviet official urged counter-proposals from the Western side.

Hagerty said other subjects discussed today were disarmament, increased trade and freer exchanges of persons between Russia and the U.S.

The press secretary said there was no mention of any visit by Premier Khrushchev to the United States nor a visit of Vice-President Richard Nixon to the Soviet Union. There had been speculation about such visits.

Hagerty declined to answer directly when asked whether the subject of a possible summit conference or a four-power East-West meeting came up. He said: "I've gone as far as I can."

When the meeting in Eisenhower's office broke up, Mikoyan appeared briefly before reporters.

The Soviet deputy minister delivered a personal message from his chief, Nikita Khrushchev, wishing Eisenhower good health and "success on the road to better relations between our two countries."

"The president thanked me and asked me to convey similar warm greetings to our prime minister," Mikoyan reported. "I can say we held an exchange of views on many matters of mutual interest. We did not conduct negotiations but tried to find the positions of our countries on many matters. "This was not a negotiation but a useful exchange of views. At the end, the president, the secretary of state and we all came to the conclusion that the exchange was useful."

Mikoyan Cancels Florida Visit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan today cancelled a visit to Florida next week and decided to return to Moscow on Tuesday, three days earlier than originally scheduled.

ARNOLD HEENEKEY
... back to Washington

Canadian Ambassador Appointed

OTTAWA (CP)—Arnold Heenekey, chairman of the civil service commission, has been appointed Canadian ambassador to Washington, it was announced today.

Mr. Heenekey will go to Washington in February. In accepting the appointment, he returns to a job he held from 1953 to April 1957.

The Washington post has been vacant since Norman Robertson left in October, 1958, to replace Jules Leger as undersecretary of state for external affairs in Ottawa.

Washington is considered one of the top jobs in the Canadian diplomatic circuit. It has seldom been left vacant for any long period and there has been some speculation here about the delay in finding a replacement for Mr. Robertson.

NATIVE OF MONTREAL

Mr. Heenekey, born at Montreal in April, 1902, has spent most of his diplomatic career in North America. From 1940 to 1949 he was clerk of the privy council and secretary of the cabinet.

Only Friday, in perhaps his final act as civil service commission head, he presented a report recommending the first major revisions in the Civil Service Act in 40 years.

Presumably completion of this report, on which he had worked for 18 months, freed him for the Washington assignment.

Mr. Heenekey has also served as Canada's permanent representative on the NATO council in Paris.

'450 Will Be Executed' Castro Tells Followers

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro estimates 450 persons will die before the current wave of executions ends in Cuba.

Already 205 persons have been reported shot on charges of crimes against the people during the dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista. Cuban prisons recently held an estimated 5,000 to 6,000 more for trial on similar charges but some have been released and others given jail terms.

Castro gave his estimate to a crowd of about 10,000 in front of the presidential palace Friday night. He called for a rally of 500,000 persons in Havana next Wednesday to signify approval of the executions.

FLED TO U.S.

Castro also said the rally should back up his request for the extradition of "war criminals" and other followers of Batista, many of whom have fled to the United States with large sums of money they amassed during their years in power.

The Castro government has said it will press for the extradition from the Dominican Republic of Batista himself, although there seems little likelihood that fellow dictators Rafael Trujillo will let Cuba have Batista back.

Also expected at the rally are demonstrations against any foreign intervention here. Cuban papers have given top play to Castro's warnings against meddling in the island, particularly by the U.S.

The Cuban people generally have applauded the trials and executions. Earlier today, 200 persons in front of a police station Friday demonstrated for lynching of one suspect.

The actions have aroused sharp criticism in the United States and other countries, however. Castro invited for sign reporters and diplomats to attend the trials to check their fairness.

Newspapers in Brazil, Peru, Ecuador, Argentina and Costa Rica have called for a halt to the bloodshed. The Uruguayan representative to the United Nations appealed to Provisional President Manuel Urrutia to stop the killings. Other Latin American delegates at the UN were reported planning a similar appeal. U.S. Democratic Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon suggested in Washington that Castro invite UN observers to check the trial and execution methods.

APPOINT ENVOY

Arguing that the Cuban government named Havana lawyer Ernesto Dillgo as Cuban ambassador to the United States.

It was reported in Washington that Philip A. Bonsal, now U.S. ambassador to Bolivia, will be the new American envoy to Cuba.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Warm, sticky kisses from two pounds of miniature French poodle.

"They're wonderful," sighed two little girls and gave Bimbo, the victim of a cross-country dog-napping, another big hug.

Bimbo came home by plane on a C.O.D. ticket. He had travelled some 5,000 miles by train and plane since Dec. 20 when taken from the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Goff.

They had purchased the poodle for $100 as a Christmas gift for their daughters, Patricia Ann, 9, and Lois Jean, 8. Last Saturday, detective L. R. Zimmerman located Bimbo in San Diego, Calif.

"We found out the woman who took the dog is a known shoplifter," the detective said. "She climbed into the house through an unlocked window, grabbed Bimbo, and sent him to her husband as a gift." No charges will be filed. The Goffs want it that way.

MOSCOW — Russian television and refrigerator repairmen refuse to give prompt service unless the customer comes through with an illegal bonus, and something should be done about it, says Trud, the trade union newspaper.

LONDON—Queen Elizabeth and 10-year-old Prince Charles had to tramp a quarter of a mile through snow Thursday after the car she was driving got stuck in a drift.

The Queen and her son, who are vacationing at their Sandringham estate, were out on a morning drive when the car skidded and stuck in a drift.

They left the car and walked to a nearby home where the Queen telephoned for help. A car was sent to pick them up.

UTRECHT, The Netherlands—Queen Juliana escaped injury today in a collision which heavily damaged her car. A van skidded on an icy road and collided with the royal car.

MUSKEGON, Mich.—Blonde Mrs. Donna Dibble is the first-round winner in her $2,500 damage suit over a bathing suit she said left her "all most nude."

Mrs. Dibble, 25-year-old housewife, was permitted by court order Friday to go ahead with her invasion of privacy warranty suit against a women's apparel store.

Judge Noel P. Fox rejected a defendant motion to dismiss the case.

Mrs. Dibble charges that a swim suit bought from the store in July, 1957, turned transparent when she went swimming in Lake Michigan. She said this caused her embarrassment and humiliation.

Question: What book did you read in 1958 and like the most, and why?

Lieut. Michael Watton, Haney, B.C.

"I liked 'Defeat Into Victory' by Field Marshal Sir William Slim, the story of the 'forgotten army' in Burma. It was written in excellent, concise English, understandable by both the professional soldier and the layman."

Watton Sandford

Ralph Sandford, 453 Head Street:

"I read 'Mad' that occasional publication. It's very much in keeping with the modern times (not the newspaper). If you don't keep a good sense of humor these days, you're lost."

Miss Eve Cox, 727 Victoria: "I read a lot of good books, but I especially liked Thor Heyerdahl's book concerning the problem of the Easter Island stones. It was fascinating. Of course, I'm interested in archeology and that sort of thing, anyway."

Cox McFeely

Ted McFeely, 1013 Tillicum: "I've read all kinds during the year, and one that appeals to me is 'The Fraser,' by your boss . . . Bruce Hutchison. More young people should read it for both history and knowledge."

Frank Mitchell, 1303 Lyall: "My best book to read has been one on modern philosophy. It deals with the philosophy of economics. Why did I like it? I'm interested in political and economic thought and behavior."

Mitchell Wagner

Adrian Wagner, 217 Ontario: "I read mechanical books, mostly monthly journals of all types, and many dealing with outboard motors. Then, also I read the newspapers. That's about it."

Trade Experts Too Gloomy, Report Shows

OTTAWA (CPI)—Trade department economists early last spring had predicted that 1958 would see a decline in national production and a post-war peak in unemployment, and that the recession might stretch into 1959.

Their report, which figured in a hot political fight at the last session of Parliament though it hadn't then been made public, was tabled in the Commons Friday by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

In retrospect, some of the main forecasts by the trade department appear to have painted a darker picture than has since been shown by subsequent events.

PREDICTED DROP
The report said it was doubtful that volume of national production would match the 1957 level. In fact, the volume remained unchanged.

It predicted exports, one of the key factors in the economy, would fall by $186,000,000 below the 1957 figure of $4,336,000,000. Latest estimates indicate that 1958 exports were unchanged from 1957.

But it correctly foresaw declines in business investment and imports.

In any event, Friday's production of the trade department forecast, made in March and given to the government in April, appears likely to spark a renewal of last session's heated Commons debates.

Last session Liberal spokesmen said Finance Minister Fleming had not heeded the forecast in drafting his June 17 budget speech, in which he said: "There are hopeful signs that we have reached the end of the recent decline."

Last summer Opposition Leader Pearson demanded that the forecast be made public then. Prime Minister Diefenbaker promised to publish it at the end of 1958.

Trade department forecasts, prepared annually, had always been confidential until Prime Minister Diefenbaker in a Commons speech last Jan. 20 read parts of the 1957 report prepared for the former Liberal government. He claimed the Liberals had ignored economic warnings in the report and had done nothing to forestall the recession. His accusation was a major issue in last winter's election campaign.

The trade department forecast estimated that the 1958 recession would be much greater than the mild economic setback in 1953-54.

It predicted the number of persons without jobs and seeking work would rise by 67 per cent to an average of 425,000 for the year—a postwar peak from the 1957 average of 254,000.

AWAIT 1958 FIGURES

No final figure on the actual 1958 average is available at present. The estimate of mid-December unemployment will be made public next week. However, numbers of persons without jobs and seeking work reached 390,000 last March—highest since the depression of the 1930s.

PRESERVED AS HISTORIC SITE

Ottawa 'Saves' Fort Rodd

Fort Rodd Hill on the far side of Esquimaux Harbor has been approved as a historic site by the Historical Sites and Monuments Board of Canada.

Recreation Minister Earle Westwood Friday said he had been informed by Northern Affairs and Natural Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton that the federal government will assume responsibility for developing the 44-acre site.

The fort area is bounded by Belmont and Lagoon Roads and on the other side by the sea.

Preservation of the fort was recommended last year to the federal government by Dr. W. N. Sage, B.C. member of the Historical Sites and Monuments Board.

The site includes historic

Figard Lighthouse, the oldest lighthouse on the northwest Pacific coast.

Lt.-Col. Aubrey Kent, chairman of the Fort Rodd Hill committee, which fought for the preservation of the fort, said he believed that the site would be developed over a period of years.

"The main thing is that the fort has been set aside as an historic site," he said. "The next step will be to plan its development."

BIG POSSIBILITIES

"It has wonderful possibilities," he added. "An army museum can be established there. It can become a major tourist attraction for the area."

The raising of the walled fort facing the Strait of Juan de Fuca and guarding the entrance of Esquimaux Harbor began late in the 19th century.

It was built by the Canadian government at the request of the British government, which at that time assumed all responsibility for the protection of the west coast of Canada. Royal Engineers designed the fort, which is similar in construction to those built during the 19th century in India and Africa.

A Just Judge

SILENUS

FOUR things belong to the judge: to hear courteously, to answer wisely, to consider soberly, and to decide impartially. So said Socrates; and though he spoke these words over 2,000 years ago, he might well have been thinking of the latest in the great succession of just and upright judges to be taken from us.

It is not as the architect of policy (and he was that) but as the judge that Gordon Sloan will be remembered. For the greater part of his working life, up until a few weeks ago, he was hearing courteously, answering wisely, considering soberly and deciding impartially, and to the doing of these noble tasks he brought a lofty and penetrating mind.

On the Bench of the Court of Appeal he had no difficulty in maintaining the dignity which is born of complete competence. Young lawyers trying their wings in that court were at first greatly impressed with the glacial impassivity of the Chief Justice; it put them firmly in their place. Later they gained confidence as they began to realize that their painful and halting efforts were being heard with exactly the same grave and courteous attention as the experienced eloquence of their seniors. Many a sound, but stumbingly-presented legal argument of some frightened junior was deftly sorted out, summarized and passed on to the other judges in so unobtrusive a manner that the junior, if he were brash and superficial, thought he had done it himself.

But the thoughtful young lawyer knew better, and was grateful. Learning can be acquired, but wisdom comes from example. The Chief Justice was a great exemplar, and the quality of the Bar in British Columbia is the better for his years of patience.

The Socratic qualities possessed in so large measure by this man were to make their influence felt in spheres other than the law. As an arbitrator in disputes of all kinds he was called in to resolve the insoluble impasses which come from the collision of the immovable and the irresistible, and he never failed.

His name became a byword in the hurlyburly of large labor disputes, a sort of oracle in whom bitterly contending parties were both content to trust. In the railway snarls and the deadlocks of the forest industry his extraordinary judicial capacities were tested to the extreme. He was the court of last resort, and he never failed to provide a solution to every difficulty.

Now he is gone, leaving many monuments behind him. And the best is that he heard courteously, answered wisely, considered soberly and decided impartially.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Robert Donat's Last Role

LONDON—Show business... Ingrid Bergman's latest, The Inn of the Sixth Happiness, has taken over where River Kwai left off as the most talked about film in these parts. For a variety of reasons.

First of all there's that revelation that Robert Donat struggled through the making of it just before he died—so that he could leave his three children some money. If he had not appeared in The Inn he would have died penniless. As it was he left about $70,000—his fee for the part.

Then there's the matter of the theme tune in it. The man behind this is Malcolm Arnold, the same composer who took the old Colonel Bogey March, wrote a counter-melody for it for River Kwai and made that number a huge international hit.

Having proved this was a good gimmick, he did the same thing with another old air, Knickerbocker, Paddywack Give a Dog a Bone, and used it for background music for The Inn. Now there's a flood here of Knickerbocker discs and it's rushing up the hit parade. And finally this rather sad quote from

Miss Gladys Aylward, the missionary on whom Bergman's part is based: "I understand the film has love scenes. I have never had a love scene in my life..."

Canada's Bradens, Bernie and Barbara, are to have another crack at achieving the dream they've had for nigh on a decade now—scoring a joint success in a West End stage play. They'll be together in a piece called The Gimmick next March.

Notice that appeared outside the theatre where the British musical, Mr. Venus, was a dismal flop: "Closing Saturday—Opened in Error."

The U.S. song-hit, Beep Beep, has had to be revamped for English ears. The only way a song can get on the air in Britain is through the BBC monopoly and without regular radio airings it's difficult to get a tune really plugged.

The BBC refused to put Beep Beep on the air because it mentions the commercial products Cadillac and Nash. (For the same reason they banned Sing Brother Sing because Shredded Wheat was in the lyrics.)

So American recording artists have been brought back to the studios to sing it again, substituting "limousine" and "bubble car." Definition of a straight actress: 34-34-34.

Nehru, Tito Set Neutral Co-Existence
NEW DELHI (AP)—India and Yugoslavia will continue their policy of co-existing with all East-West blocs but will join none, Prime Minister Nehru and President Tito promised Friday.

The two leaders issued a joint statement at the end of a two-day visit to the Indian capital by the Yugoslav president. The brief statement said: "Both leaders expressed determination to continue to do their utmost for the preservation of peace and for the solution of international problems by peaceful methods and negotiations in accordance with the policy of non-alignment with any blocs."

Tito and his wife flew to southern India for a three-day sight-seeing tour before going on to Ceylon. They visited Egypt, Indonesia and Burma before arriving in India.

gan. Snowflurries are expected in the central interior and Kootenays later today as the disturbance moves inland. A southwesterly circulation will persist over the province following the disturbance and Sunday will be cloudy and mild in all sectors of B.C.

ART IN REVIEW

By MONCRIEFF WILLIAMSON

Italian Influence Noted In Rubens' Paintings

EX-D. A. AN AUTHOR

NEW YORK (UPI)—Eleazar Lipsky, a former assistant district attorney of New York County, has his second book club novel coming out in February. The Book of the Month Club has chosen his "The Scientists" as its selection for that month. His first club selection was "Lincoln McKeever."

This is the second of three articles by Mr. Williamson on the Hammer Collection of Old Masters now on view at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

In 1669, the year of Rembrandt's death, the Dutch painter Gerard de Lairese said of Rembrandt that he was a "master capable of nothing but vulgar and prosaic subjects, who merely achieved an effect of rottenness."

As mentioned in last week's article, the exhibition of the Hammer Collection of Old Masters (on view at the Art Gallery until Jan. 31) is filled with all those little excitements which are so stimulating for lovers of art. Thus there is an opportunity for Victorians to see not only a Rembrandt but a small painting on copper by Gerard de Lairese, and it is indeed unusual to see works by these two famous contemporaries and antagonists hanging in the same gallery.

Williamson This particular painting by Lairese, smaller than the works normally associated with his name, is a gem. A gem of high, artificial classicism portraying "Luna and Endymion."

Lairese, of course, has been outshone by the more evident genius of Rembrandt, and his paintings veer towards French, rather than Italian influences. As in the case of Rubens, Lairese was fond of introducing "putti" or cherubs, an Italian practice, admittedly; but by and large his paintings have a distinct French technique of style.

The two Rubens works in this exhibition provide fascinating comparisons, and both reveal the natural affinity which this artist had for Italy.

The seven years which Rubens spent in Italy have been poorly recorded as far as artists are concerned, and it has been left to such historians as Jacob Burckhardt to fit together the jigsaw of contacts and associations which left their imprint upon Rubens' later work.

In the painting of "Venus Wounded by a Thorn," we have a splendid example of what Burckhardt referred to as a "certain arbitrariness in the modelling, which recurs even in Rubens' later cherubs."

The picture seems almost coarsely painted, yet how boldly handled. On the other hand, the "modello" sketch for "The Nativity" altar piece in San Filippo Neri in Fermo is executed with almost meticulous detail and mannerism. Here it is possible to see the influences of both Vasari and Caravaggio, particularly in the dramatic use of what might seem to us, an effect of almost artificial light.

A WRITER'S DIARY

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

SNEEING AT AMERICANS has been a popular English sport since before 1776. A fine recent example appears in some notes written by the critic Philip Toynbee on the books he has most admired in 1958. Of "Lolita," he says: "Its notoriety has made it a best-seller in America, but it deserves better than to be treated as a work of high-powered pornography."

It takes a Balliol man to crowd so much insult into a single sentence. "Lolita" will appear in England in a few weeks, and we shall see how it is received there.

England's reputation for appreciating works of art which might, to some palates, seem pornographic, is not unblemished. In 1954 I was in London during the trial relating to "The Philanderer" by Stanley Kauffmann, and I recall meeting the publisher at a dinner-party after a harassing day in court. He was quite unstrung, and kept referring to the learned counsel who had cross-examined him as "some poop got up in a wig."

HIS PAINFUL EXPERIENCE may be repeated by George Weidenfeld, of Weidenfeld and Nicolson, who will publish "Lolita." Mr. Weidenfeld has expressed his willingness to go to jail, if need be, on behalf of the book. A cosmopolitan gentleman, beautifully dressed and barbered, fluent in several languages, and bearing all about him the visible evidence of a fine taste in food and wines, Mr. Weidenfeld would raise the tone of any jail, but I do not think he will have to go. There are too many highly intelligent people in England who would raise merry hell if a publisher were imprisoned for bringing out what is, demonstrably, a notable work of art.

It is the possession of a vocal educated class which distinguishes England, in this respect, from the U.S.A. and Canada; even British law respects the acid tongue of the British intelligentsia.

"Lolita" does not contain a single dirty word, or a passage which makes vice attractive. Its theme is not the corruption of an innocent child by a cunning adult, but the exploitation of a weak adult by a corrupt child.

This is no pretty theme, but it is one with which social workers, magistrates and psychiatrists are familiar. The real offence of the book, I think, is that the author, Vladimir Nabokov, has been extremely funny about his subject.

I am, by the way, informed by a Russian-speaking friend that his name is pronounced Na-BOK-off, and not, as I had ignorantly supposed, NAB-a-cough.)

THERE ARE MANY people (and Canada has more than its share) who think that there are whole ranges of human experience which are not suitable for humorous treatment. I am not one of them; I believe only in humor and will have no truck with "humorous treatment," which is the kind of phrase used by those writers who think that there can be nothing funny about drug addiction, sex perversion and death, and nothing serious about mothers-in-law, cheese and women's hats. True humor cannot be controlled, and strikes like lightning, revealing what we have not seen before.

This is what Nabokov does, and you cannot fairly judge him by "Lolita" alone. If you want to form an opinion about him, read "Pnin," read "Invitation of a Bearded Man," read "The Eye" (you can get it in a paper-back) read the short stories in "Nabokov's Dozen" (especially that compassionate one called "Life of a Double Monster"). These books will put him in focus.

He is one of the great writers of our day, and resembles nobody, except perhaps Sir Osbert Sitwell, whose "Before the Bombardment," published in 1926, is one of the neglected great novels of our time.

Danish Prize Novel

NO LEAVE FOR THE CAPTAIN, by Gerhard Rasmussen (Crowell).

This novel is set in the dark days of Second World War when Britain was threatened by a new German mine. Two mines have drifted ashore and must be rendered inactive so they can be studied.

The job is up to two young British mine disposal men who must succeed or be blown up. The author traces the effect of this tension on the lives of the men and their families—lives that were already under private strains.

The book, originally in Danish, was awarded the Danish Grand Prix.

Denise Mara Performs Music for Music's Sake

This seems to be piano festival week. Tomorrow and Monday, Robin Wood and Winifred Scott, duo pianists, play the Bach double concerto with the Victoria Symphony, and Robin Wood takes the solo part in the Brahms B-flat piano concerto at these same repeat concerts. But, about this I spoke in detail last week on this page, and today I have particular pleasure in drawing your attention to next Wednesday evening's piano recital to be given by Denise Mara at Holyrood House, under the auspices of that fine Musical Arts Society.

Like Robin Wood, Denise Mara has been appropriated by Victoria with no little pride, though both of them have long since gone much further afield. As pianists go nowadays, Miss Mara brings quite a different and distinctly individual approach to bear on her chosen art.

The world is far from lacking today in pianists who are able to out-do themselves in the prodigious number of notes they can strike per minute, even per second, with machine-like accuracy, infallible precision, great loudness—and, equally machine-like unmusicality.

Miss Mara must be adjudged as a shining exception among the general run-of-the-mill pianists and their approach to their work. In that she has always been primarily concerned with the music itself as the end, rather than using the music as the vehicle and means for displaying dazzling piano mechanics.

What is more, she seems not to have heard-of-or-if she has, completely disregarded—the fact that the age of specialization has arrived—a matter fast getting completely out of hand.

I expect any day now to be referred to a mechanic whose exclusive province is Phillips screw drivers, or to be told about a virtuoso whose specialty is music in the key of E-flat only.

Don't laugh, for it is happening. The latest sensation in the world of piano playing is one who is currently making an indecently lucrative career with a total repertoire of two pieces; though in all fairness I must mention the extenuating circumstances that one concerto is by Tschalkowski and the other by Rachmaninoff, and that the former is in B-flat minor and the latter in D-minor (but, notice, BOTH in minor!).

It may be that the next conductor to enjoy the world-wide adulation and success accorded the late Toscanini will be one who has become the inimitable master of pieces written in 4/4 time.

Yes, all this is very much

apropos of Denise Mara, and her recital next Wednesday. For here is an artist—to be sure—in ample command technically, but one whose technique and whole intellectual and interpretive approach is based on the time-honored fact that there is a difference between Mozart and Bartok, between Chopin and Rachmaninoff, and who is deeply concerned with letting her audiences HEAR the difference.

I, for one, look forward to next Wednesday evening and to the sort of artistically honest music-making that has become much rarer than you may think.

SOLOIST APPLAUDS SOLOIST

It is, to say the least, not usual for a guest artist to himself applaud the performance of a member of the orchestra in the middle of a concerto!

But this is what happened Friday night at Duncan when Robin Wood, playing Brahms' Piano Concerto No. 2 with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, at the end of the third movement applauded first cellist Mary Evans' beautiful rendering of the famous solo cello passages.

This being the only piano concerto having four movements, pianist Wood, Hans Gruber and the orchestra then continued to an exciting close and were greeted with shouts of "bravo" and enthusiastic applause from the capacity audience.

As two balanced pianos were not available in Duncan Bach's Air from Suite in D was substituted for the Bach double piano concerto which will open the two Victoria concert this weekend, and in which Wood will be joined by his gifted wife, Winifred Scott.

'NO PARADISE'

Actor Disillusioned By Tahiti Location

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—'I've

been to tougher locations in this country—on mountains in the Rockies and places that were infested with rattlesnakes. But at least they were never billed as Paradise."

This sums up Edmond O'Brien's disillusionment after a three-month stay in Tahiti for a film location. The legendary land-of-Gauguin canvases isn't Paradise, the actor sighed, not by a long shot.

French moviemakers tabbed O'Brien as O'Brien for an expensive movie of the South Seas, "The Ambitious." The location in Tahiti sounded like a dream.

Says O'Brien: "As scenery, Tahiti itself was a disappointment. In the first place, there isn't a white beach on the island. The natives fish, but you seldom see them swim; the lagoons are lined with coral that can cut you to ribbons."

Tahiti seems to have attracted all of the worst that Western civilization could have brought to the place.

GRACE AND ELEGANCE IN TRADITIONAL FORM

Classic beauty is evoked in the choreography and decor of Royal Winnipeg Ballet Company's "Ballet Premier" which is included in the repertoire to be seen during the Company's single performance at the Royal Theatre, Tuesday evening. Vancouver ballerina Marina Katronis stars in this scene with lead dancer Fredric Strobel. In the corps-de-ballet is Sheila Mackinnon, former Victoria dancer.

THE SOUNDING BOARD

'Luckier Than We Deserve' In Leadership Quality

By AUDREY S.T.D. JOHNSON

Since ability and talent in every phase of human activity seems to appear in pyramid form, there is always basically a large mass of mediocrity topped by a tiny portion of true distinction.

In a great spread-out and under-populated country like Canada there is never enough of the truly distinguished, outstanding ability coupled with full and first-class training to go around.

Many communities have to get along without the inspiring presence of a brilliant teacher, conductor or leader in the cultural field.

And it is amazing how much effect such persons can have on a community's all-round status—not excluding its economy.

Here in Victoria we have been extraordinarily fortunate, the more so because there is no great fortune to be made along such lines and in the past we have had little support officially.

NEED CBC OUTLET

Recently some of our leaders have emerged from the long sleep and are doing their best to needle the others awake.

A CBC outlet (regular taped programs originating from among this city's taxpayers) would help a little. And then, of course, an auditorium... or a mass blood transfusion from the veins of more imaginative and vital persons.

But again I say we have been fortunate. More so than we deserve on the whole. In our arts' history we have had some mighty effective transfusions from abroad.

People like Stanley Shale and Gertrude Huntly Green, outstanding pianists and teachers; Hans Gruber, Graham Steed. And still further back, gifted organist and choral conductor Stanley Bulley and L. W. Bullock-Webster, who inspired theatrical activity not only in Victoria but all over the province.

Then there was the Hon. Mark Kearley, whose dynamic purpose and enthusiasm laid foundations for the Art Gallery.

OTHERS AT WORK

These names by no means comprise a full roster of the distinguished talents that have graced our city during even the past quarter century. Others are at work even now adding lustre to the capital city's crown, and there are still others who have made their contribution and left.

But our fortune holds. The last to go—organist and choir-master Steed—left at least one gap that looked as though it might be difficult to fill.

Good, thoroughly conversant and imaginative conductors of choral music being so rare as to make the two, or three in this area too busy to be available, the Victoria Choral Society might have had a serious problem.

Newly-come to the city, however, and willing to step on the podium, was Stanley Hoban. Another Stanley picking up the baton that was first wielded by Stanley Bulley 25 years ago. And if I am any judge, this is a most happy solution to the problem for the society, for music-lovers and for the city.

SHARED BY FEW

Twenty-five years of uninterrupted activity is a record the Victoria Choral Society shares with only one or two other arts organizations.

First known as the "Victoria Choral and Orchestral Union," its membership was originally confined to members of the various Anglican churches.

Inaugural presentation was The Messiah performed in Christ Church Cathedral in 1934 under Mr. Bulley, the cathedral organist at that time, who was also, incidentally, music critic for this newspaper for several years.

In 1951, when the Victoria Symphony attained the status of a first-class orchestra, it was decided to drop the term "Orchestral" from the society's name and the present title was adopted. The denominational character of the ensemble was also abandoned.

COMPETITION

Peak membership was at one time around 150, but development of other singing groups and choirs has brought the number down to between 80 and 90.

A succession of conductors followed Mr. Bulley and under them the repertoire has taken in the great classical oratorios and work by foremost modern composers, such as Vaughan Williams and Benjamin Britten.

Under Mr. Hoban's leadership an even more versatile repertoire is planned, with representations from the beautiful and extensive literature of folk song and other forms of choral music to be added.

Art Song Concert By Fischer-Dieskau

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Already acclaimed by Canadian and U.S. critics as one of the world's most outstanding interpreters of German art songs, Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau gives a superb recital of the songs of Richard Strauss on a new Angel record (23500). He is accompanied by the great artist, Gerald Moore, at the piano.

Songs of this type are a supreme test for any mature singer. They are not easy to put over. They require perfect tone-control to portray their depth and feeling. The 34-year-old German baritone does just this in a recital as near perfect as one would wish.

He sings a total of 16 songs, some of the best Strauss ever wrote. His performance of Ruhe Meine Seele (Rest My Soul) and Die Nacht (The Night) will be hard to excel. But equal credit must go to Gerald Moore for his superb pianism.

The album includes German texts with English translations.

Fischer-Dieskau has made several song albums—all of which are of an excellent standard. Two of his most outstanding are a recital of Mahler's "Songs of a Wayfarer," accompanied by the Philharmonic Orchestra, and Brahms' songs. Both were recorded by Angel.

For collectors in search of a less serious recorded concert, I would recommend "Merry Overtures" performed by the Cleveland Orchestra under the baton of George Szell (Epic LC3506). This is lively music—a sort of Lollipop concert. The orchestra plays Berlioz: The Roman Carnival; Auber: Fra Diavolo; Smetana: The Bartered Bride; Mozart: The Marriage of Figaro; Rossini: La Zazza Indira; Strauss: Die Fledermaus.

BLOT GIVES RISE TO PROBLEM

What appears at right at first glance to be a meaningless blot surrounded by an unintelligible jumble of letters is actually a two-dimensional puzzle.

Cut out the drawing which is inside the letters. Fold it on the dotted lines to make a silhouette of a certain species of living creature.

Then, starting with a certain letter in the diagram and jumping one letter each time, spell out the names of five different kinds of the silhouetted species.

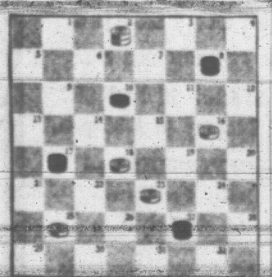

THIS IS THE END

If you are a person of resolution, you'll find this puzzle can be resolved in the end by supplying the missing letters to the words ending in "end" defined below. Five are six-letter words; five have seven letters. No. 1, for example, is the word "Depend." Now see if you can take it from there.

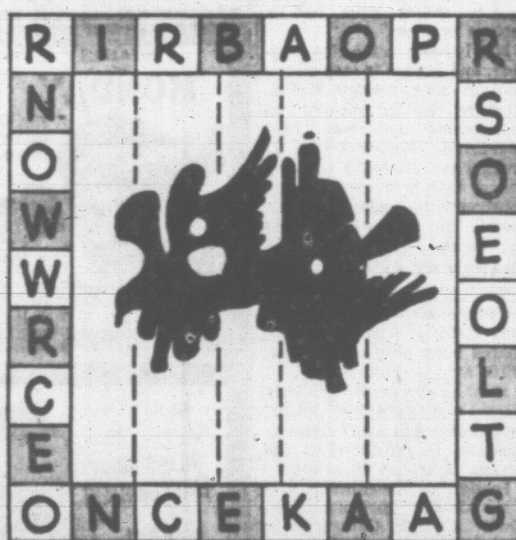

- ... end 1. To rely.
- ... end 2. To broaden.
- ... end 3. An associate.
- ... end 4. To protect.
- ... end 5. To accompany.
- ... end 6. To vie.
- ... end 7. To fool.
- ... end 8. To hang.
- ... end 9. To foretell.
- ... end 10. An allowance.

More than one answer may be possible in some instances. How many can you answer correctly?

IT'S YOUR MOVE

By MILLARD HOPPER
One player claims that White can defeat his opponent in five moves. Another says it cannot be done in less than seven. Who is correct? It's White's turn, moving up the board.

AN EYE-CUE TESTER

U T D E V I L E
When Ima Sharpe read off the letters correctly, she added, "Doctor, by adding one letter to those seven and rearranging them, a well-known English word can be spelled."

What word had the patient in mind?

PUZZLING MATTER OF DIPLOMACY

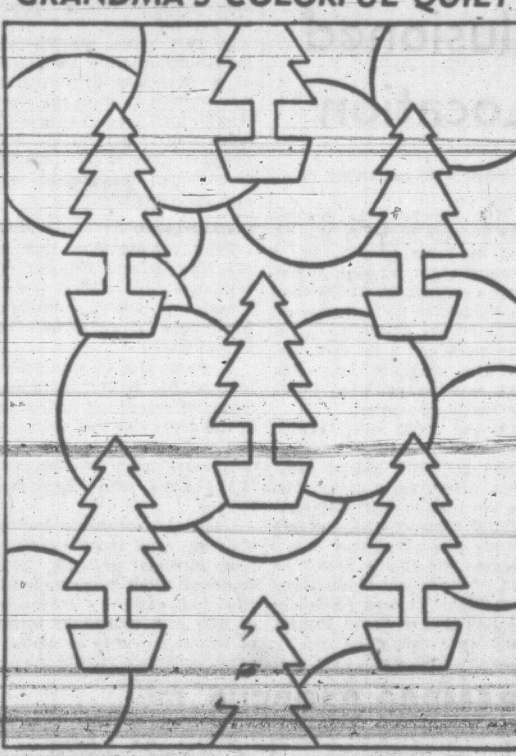

Seven diplomats decided they would dine together every evening provided they could seat themselves in a different arrangement at the table each time they met. How long would they dine before exhausting all possibilities?

SUNDAY SCHOoled?

Each normal year, January comes one day later. For example, Jan. 1, 1959, fell on Thursday and Jan. 1, 1960, will be on Friday. But when there is a Leap Year, the difference is, of course, two days, so that Jan. 1, 1961, will be on Sunday.

Bearing in mind that century years are Leap Years only if the first two figures are divisible by four, how long before the first day of a century is Sunday?

GRANDMA'S COLORFUL QUILT

Grandma has decided that for them that no two adjacent colors are to be used in working out the design of her latest quilt. She'd like to keep it Christmas' but any three colors are permissible. Her problem is to color each area of the quilt with one of the three colors, so arrange

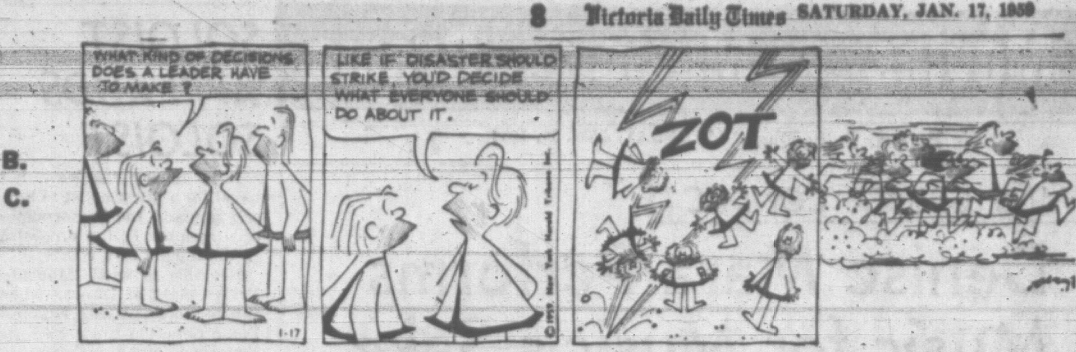

ALL VERY NICE, IT SEEMS

At a recent and very formal gathering there were 10 ladies present and a considerably larger number of men. All those present were introduced to each other formally.

Each man bowed to each lady; who returned the bow. Each man shook hands with every other man (except himself), and each lady kissed every other lady (except herself). Altogether there were 635 bows, handshakes and kisses combined.

How many men were there present? Ordinarily, this would not be a difficult problem, but you may make a mistake if you are not careful.

The characteristic chirp of the crickets is produced by rubbing one wing across the other.

SIDELINE SLANTS

BY Doug Peden

Things should change once the Pacific Coast Soccer League season gets under way, but this Sunday Mario Fera is liable to be feeling mighty lonely.

Mario is a 25-year-old boomer from Italy, by way of Ontario, who may be destined to play an important part in the Victoria's coast loop campaign. His last football stint before heading for Victoria was to finish up his third season in the professional National League.

Competing against Montreal in the playoff final, Mario's Toronto Italia club attracted 15,000 home-town fans to the opening match of the two-game series. That one finished in a 2-2 deadlock and about 5,000 turned out at Montreal to watch Italia drop a one-goal decision and the title in the second game.

Fera can expect to find a bleaker view along the sidelines at the Topaz Avenue pitch when he makes his Victoria and District Football League debut Sunday afternoon. He'll be playing with front-running Canadian Scottish against last-place Butler Bros. in a match which would normally attract only two or three dozen spectators.

The wavy-haired six-footer played with Italy's schoolboy champions in 1950 then moved through the junior ranks to the country's second division, holding down the centre-half spot for the Regina club of Reggio Cal in the 1953-54 campaign, his last in Italy.

They Hope Mario Will Be Their Man

Mario performed with Toronto Trident in the National League during his first year in Canada. Then followed two seasons of club soccer at Sudbury before he moved back to Toronto for two pro campaigns with Italia.

Last summer—the married Victoria dancer Francis Merriman and the couple later decided to travel west, which could be a break for local soccer. Fera, a haberdashery salesman, hopes to reside in Victoria and is itching to get his studded boots back on the turf.

A centre-half by preference, he has also spent considerable time at centre and inside forward positions. Since Harry Carruthers has been a tower of strength for the Scottish at centre-half, manager Ted Dover-Masters will probably have his newest player working at an inside berth Sunday.

Mario doesn't have any illusions about setting the district circuit on fire. "I know they play good football here," he said. "I just hope I can play well enough to eventually make the Victoria team."

However, it is no secret that the men who will guide the city's coast league entry are hoping that Fera, who will need some time to get back into condition, proves to be a red-hot fitba' item.

They need a player who can add talent and a dash of color to the Victoria side and they're hoping that Mario Fera is their man.

Methods of amateur officials are often strange, but the B.C. Rugby Union brass has come up with something new—a way of neatly stabbing their sport in the back.

Rugby has been struggling in these parts for years, but every season it has received a shot in the arm from the McKechnie Cup series between Victoria, Vancouver and UBC. This struggle for inter-city supremacy has been one of the few regular rugby attractions to retain fan appeal.

It has been the glamor event of B.C. rugby. To many of us, the McKechnie Cup represented the most important victory of each season.

So what happened today?

The BCRU bigwigs scheduled a cup match between Victoria and the Thunderbirds at Macdonald Park and a trial match—supposed to help in selection of a team to tour Japan—at Vancouver.

The result was that the Crimson Tide went against the Birds with seven stalwarts battling across the gulf for a place in the selectors' sun. UBC, with three aces called for the trial, was also weakened.

In other words, they have suddenly made a mockery of their big event, reducing what we have always considered a championship series to little more than an exhibition affair.

Tradition and respect of the fans apparently didn't mean a thing.

Andy Heberton, finally receiving just recognition as he heads for his fourth straight 20-goal season with New York Rangers, hasn't forgotten Victoria. In the current issue of Hockey News, Andy is quoted as saying that when his NHL days are over, he hopes to play for Victoria again and eventually coach the club.

Despite the claim in a sports magazine, Eddie Shore never played hockey for a Victoria team. Eddie, who went on to become one of the all-time great defencemen of the NHL, broke into pro hockey in the Western League around 1924, but he played with a prairie club.

Wall Serves Up Own Dessert at Clambake

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Bing Crosby's $50,000 golf tournament swung into the third round today with Art Wall, Jr., four strokes in front of the pack, thanks to a booming driver and a putter that wouldn't miss.

The 35-year-old pro ripped up the Monterey Peninsula course, one of three in use for the 72-hole event, with a seven-under-par 65 and a two-day total of 134.

An hour later, flamboyant Jimmy Demaret, who hasn't played a tournament since last July, came along on the same course and took some of the glitter off Wall's round with a brilliant 35-29-64.

The blazing round left Demaret tied with young Jim Ferree with 138. Ferree had a 66 at the tough Cypress Point layout and drew Monterey for his third round. Wall went to Pebble Beach today.

George Knudson and Gerry Magee, both from Toronto, led the Canadian entries. Knudson was one under par at 71 for a 74-71-145 total. Magee had 72-73-145.

Al Balding of Toronto went three over par to finish the second round with a 71-75-145. Veteran Stan Leonard of Vancouver was tied with him with scores of 74 and 72.

Norman of Kitchener, Ont., turned in a 71 Friday but

ANGERS MEET MONDAY NIGHT

Members of the Victoria Anglers' Club will meet Monday night for their annual meeting and trophy presentation.

The session will be held at Liberal Headquarters, 1322A Government Street, next to Club Sirocco as was erroneously stated on these pages Friday.

THEY'LL SETTLE THINGS TONIGHT

Playful tug-of-war contests for shuttle trophies will become serious racquet duels at Victoria Tennis and Badminton Club tonight. Reaching final round of open singles events in annual city badminton championships Friday night were (left to right) Bev Anderson, Bob Hunt, Harvey Hurd and Sharon Whittaker. Finals will be played tonight in 11 events of tourney.

Hurd, Hedley Wrap Up Thrills in One Package

Except in one match the expected excitement of the Victoria badminton championship singles semifinals failed to materialize Friday night at Victoria Lawn Tennis and Badminton Club.

Defending champion Bob

Hunt was never behind as he dropped challenger Roger Lindal, 15-8, 15-10, in the men's open division, and Sharon Whittaker easily defeated Jean Massey, 11-4, 11-1, in the women's event. The other half of the women's semis, Bev Anderson's 11-5, 11-9 win over Jill Kelly was also a routine triumph.

But the Ed Hedley-Harvey Hurd semifinal provided the thrills the others lacked. Result of the give-and-take contest was always in doubt with Hurd taking the opening game, 15-11, before dropping the second, 8-15.

Hurd regained control of his strokes in the third game, enough at least to salt the match away in convincing 15-4 fashion, but prolonged volleys were needed to settle most of the points.

Finals in all events will be played tonight at the Amphion Street hall, starting at 7 p.m.

Friday's results and tonight's draw:

Canuck Fumbles Break for Totems

Coast Leaders Meet Cougars Here Tonight

Vancouver Canucks fumbled a chance to gain ground on Seattle Friday night and the Totems have a chance to stretch their Coast Division lead to five points when they tackle Victoria Cougars tonight in a Western Hockey League tussle at Memorial Arena.

Playing their third game of their second swing of the season through the league's Prairie Division, the Canucks took an 8-2 thumping at the hands of Winnipeg Warriors.

Victory before 4,763 Winnipeg fans, lifted the Warriors within two points of third-place Saskatoon Quakers in the prairie circuit. The triumph was marked by the debut of former National Hockey League goalie Al Rollins, who took over the Winnipeg nets from Ray Mikulan and turned in a sparkling performance.

COUGARS CAN GAIN

Rollins, purchased from Chicago Black Hawks earlier this week, was credited with 27 saves while rookie Bruce Gamble was turning aside 37 shots on the Vancouver nets. Rollins was at his best in the opening period when Warriors hustled into a 4-0 lead. Vancouver was never in serious contention the rest of the way.

Veteran Billy Mosienko, rookie Warren Hynes and Bill Johansen each scored twice for Warriors and Bob Chrystal and Gerry Brisson each fired one shot behind Gamble.

Danny Beislie and Ron Howell counted for Canucks.

Canucks are idle tonight and the Cougars have a chance to move within one point of the runner-up spot tonight when they tackle the Totems, just back from a lengthy Prairie safari.

FORHAN, LEA TO PLAY

Cougars, who lost the services of their leading goal-scorer when Stan Balluk suffered an ankle fracture Wednesday against Spokane, will have two newcomers in action.

Coach Pat Egan plans to work youthful Billy Forhan, acquired from Quebec Aces of the Quebec League, on a line with Gordie Wilson and either Don Blackburn or Enio Scisizzi.

Bruce Lea, obtained from Calgary Stampedeers this week in a trade for Murray Wilkie, is expected to skate on a forward unit with Doug Anderson and Doug Macauley.

Egan says George Ford, Al Nicholson and Gordie Harworth will remain together. The trio accounted for three of Victoria's goals in Wednesday's 4-4 tie with Spokane.

Game time tonight is 8:30.

Paulie Looks Ahead For Greener Fields

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Paule Armstead, winner of a disputed split decision over youthful Len Matthews of Philadelphia, today looked forward to a possible bout with top-ranked Kenny Lane and a long step upwards in the lightweight ranks.

The Los Angeles battler's victory in the nationally-televised 10-round bout at Hollywood Legion Stadium drew bitter protests from Tony Graziano, manager of Matthews, but matchmaker Jackie Leonard said he would try to get Lane for Armstead next month.

"We were robbed, jobbed and cheated," Graziano roared after Friday night's fight. "We would like to meet Armstead again anywhere, except in the Los Angeles area."

Graziano voiced his ire especially at referee Jimmie Wilson, accusing him of signalling his card to ringsiders before the decision was announced.

State boxing inspector Clayton Frye questioned Wilson on Graziano's accusation but the referee explained he already had turned in his card to the ring announcer and saw nothing wrong in telling questioners how he scored the bout.

Judges George Latka and Lee Grossman had split in determining the winner, Latka

WEATHER TO BLAME

Pity Those Poor Prognosticators

LONDON (CP)—Britain, which yields to no country in the versatility of its winter weather, is watching its soccer schedules deteriorate into chaos.

Of 64 matches to be played today in the English and Scottish Leagues, at least 33 had been postponed by Friday night because of snow, rain or frost. A number of others were left in abeyance as ground officials waited to see what happened to pitches overnight.

Only a week before the schedule called for the fourth round of the Football Association Cup, eight of the 32 third-round matches were still undecided. All were tentatively set for Monday—subject to weather conditions.

Since the league season doesn't end until April and the cup final isn't due before May, the chances are that all the matches will be played sooner or later. But millions of Britons are convinced the climate has cost them a fortune.

They are the legions of punters who invest a weekly shilling or two in the football pools in the hope of hitting a jackpot of a few thousand pounds.

Every postponed match shortens the odds and, assuming the investor would have picked it right, takes money out of his pocket.

Worse still, the heavy postponement list may force the officials to rearrange the figures for a Saturday afternoon or two when the climate improves. That would be stark tragedy to the pool enthusiast.

The companies running the weekly bonanza print their entry forms well in advance in order to give their customers plenty of time to prognosticate. They won't have a chance to send out another batch if the schedules get changed.

In other words, all bets are off. Nobody wins. Nothing, not even a solid summer of rain, could be worse than that.

Interlocking Plan Set Aside Again

WINNIPEG (CP)—An interlocking schedule between the Big Four and the Western Interprovincial Football Union has been sidetracked again for at least another year.

Delegates to the second annual meeting of the Canadian Football League, governing body of the two circuits, decided Friday there will be no effort to try an interlocking schedule this year.

Today, the CFL was scheduled to discuss several other important matters, including imports, negotiation lists, territorial rights, the college draft, while the WIFU also had a committee set aside to work on its 1959 games schedule.

Drafting of Canadian College students by the nine major professional clubs received a lengthy going over Friday at the closed meetings.

WESTERN PLAN

One official said there was such a move afoot, and that the four other WIFU teams—Winnipeg, Saskatchewan, Edmonton and British Columbia—would operate on a basis of territorial rights involving their juniors and players at their respective universities. Stampedeers would be included in the eastern college draft because they have no university at Calgary.

In a separate meeting, the WIFU went on record as being behind a Winnipeg proposal for a change in the set-up of the East-West Shrine all-star game.

Bombers proposed that the Canadian junior football final be made the Shrine game, thus keeping it at amateur level, boosting minor league football and reducing the costs.

Big Four delegates so far have not indicated whether they will go along with the change, but the matter will come before the CFL when a Shrine representative will be present.

The import question also was discussed at the WIFU meeting. Two clubs—Calgary and British Columbia—wanted unlimited imports, but the other three teams saw no reason to change from the present 12.

IRISH FULLBACK SIGNS

DETROIT (AP)—Detroit Lions have announced that fullback Nick Pietrosante of Notre Dame has signed his 1959 contract. Pietrosante was the Lions' No. 1 draft choice.

Seven Chasing Zone 5 Crown

KELOWNA (CP)—Seven rinks will contest the Zone 5 competitions in the provincial men's curling playoffs, starting today in a round-robin tournament.

John Brown's Westbank Peachland combined rink will represent the host Peachland Curling Club. Other entries are Fred Kitch, Kelowna; Dick Topping, Summerland; George Schiller, Princeton; A. Smith, Osoyoos; Gordon McMin, Midway, and Allan Math, Penticton.

Arch to Present Gloves Award

VANCOUVER (CP)—Youngsters from Vancouver Island, from as far north as Prince George, and from the lower mainland are entered this year in the Emerald Gloves tournament, annual junior boxing show scheduled for Jan. 23-24.

World light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore is expected to present awards on the final night. The top award, the Emerald Boy trophy, was won last year by Rickey Deslaurier of Vancouver.

Doc's Fingers Weren't Sticky After Gold-Rush Days

NEW YORK (UPI) — The ring's real "Golden Boy" — 70-year-old Jack (Doc) Kearns — has a gold watch today, given him by the Boxing Writers' Association for his half-century contributions of color and class that helped boost leather-tossing into a major sport.

There's some debate about who was the greatest all-time fighter; but there's no argument anywhere about who was the greatest all-time manager.

Kearns will go down in history as king of the ring's brain-guys. Even his severest critics admit that.

The dapper, slender and still sprightly man who accepted the gold watch at the Boxing Writers' annual dinner, estimates that his long parade of fighters grossed, in total purses, approximately $25,000,000.

Managers of the future doubtless will be shooting at that golden mark long after baseball players have broken Babe Ruth's home run record. The amount of money that passed through his hands was fantastic. But little of it stuck to his fingers.

And that was ironic because fellows like Tex Rickard, Jack London, Wilson Mizner and others who knew Kearns during the gold-rush days in Alaska — when he was weighing gold dust behind whiskey bars for saloon keepers in that Jack always put molasses on his hair. And that he kept rubbing his hands in his hair. And that later he would wash out his hair and gather the gold dust.

Fabulous Doc — who was born at Waterloo, Mich., Aug. 17, 1888, but who spent most of his life in the far west — managed seven world champions for at least part of their careers.

Kearns says, "It was eight champions because I had

Mickey Walker when he was welterweight champ and when he was middleweight champ. The greatest of his warriors, of course, was Jack Dempsey — the tigerish heavyweight champion. "I met Dempsey in a saloon in Oakland, Calif., when I was having an argument with one of my fighters, middleweight Vic Hanson," Kearns explains.

"Hanson was sore because I hadn't taken him to Australia with some of my other fighters; and he was just about to punch me around when up steps this rough-looking dark-haired stranger. He says he will flatten Hanson if he doesn't let me alone. Well, a free-for-all followed and Hanson didn't bother me any more."

Later Kearns became Dempsey's manager and moved him to the title and to pugilism's first million-dollar gates under Tex Rickard's promotions.

"During the time I had Dempsey, I figure we grossed about $19,000,000 — for fights, movies, advertising tie-up and so forth."

The gross with Mickey Walker was about $3,000,000, he said.

Other champions he managed were featherweight Abe Attell, lightweight Benny Leonard (on his comeback), welterweight Jackie Fields, light-heavyweight Joey Maxim, and now, light-heavyweight Archie Moore.

How come he was such a successful manager?

"Well, in my young, bumbling days around Colorado, Nevada, Washington and Utah, I had about 80 or 90 fights," he said. "So I knew boxing. And I learned about managing from hanging around with William A. Brady, who managed Jim Corbett and Jim Jeffries — and later became a big theatrical man in New York."

ON THE ALLEYS

Don't Forget Other Bowlers

By GRAHAM COX

With the ever-increasing number of people taking up the sport of bowling and the increasing emphasis upon the sport by company social organizations as a means of meeting fellow workers in a convivial atmosphere of competition, we wonder if this might not be a good time to pause and take a quick peek at the etiquette of the game, apart from actual rules.

Many of the "rules" of etiquette on a bowling alley are just common sense and common courtesy, but it is often surprising how lax we can become in the observance of these courtesies, if not reminded one in a while.

Many of the conventions have just grown, like Topsy, out of necessity, but none of them are hard to observe. They just need a little thought.

One of the most flagrantly abused conventions is seen on the apron of the alleys when bowlers move to choose their balls from the rack.

Concentration is one of the keynotes of good bowling, and in nearly every printed rule book, the bowler on the right is given the honor of bowling first whenever practicable.

Many times, too many times, it has been noted that a bowler about to take his place on the apron has stepped into the line of vision of a "ready" bowler just in time to distract his attention from the alley and the pins.

A petty annoyance, indeed, but one that can often mean the difference between a strike and a corner pin.

Just wait a second, that's all it takes, then go get your ball.

Another often abused rule, concerns the shoes worn by the bowlers.

They are made for a specific purpose . . . bowling . . . to be used in a specific place . . . on the alleys.

This is not a hasty ruling, but one designed for the greatest benefit to the greatest number of bowlers.

Again common sense generated the rule. How can any alley operator keep clean alleys if dirt is constantly tracked to the apron, the alleys and the pits by bowlers who wander about the "house," or, as been seen, outside of the house, in their bowling shoes?

Benches are provided immediately behind each alley for changing shoes just to minimize this annoyance.

Next time you complain about "sticky" alleys, think how they got that way.

Give a thought, once in a while, to the bowler beside you and next time he, or she, may give a thought to you.

The city teppin' champions already have the air of records about them, even though slated for Feb. 1 and Feb. 8 at Strathcona Bowling Alleys.

It looks as though there are going to have to be extra shifts layed-on for both Saturdays. Team events will be rolled the first weekend with doubles and singles slated the second. The Women's International Bowling Congress decided, this week, to hold their annual city championships the two weeks following the men's tourney, at Gibson's Bowladrome.

Feb. 15 will be the date for team matches and Feb. 22 for the doubles and singles. Shifts are 12:45, 4 and 9 p.m.

H. Bryan bowled the top tenpin series of the week on city lanes, hitting 632 on single games of 192, 203 and 237 in the Commercial League at Gibson's.

The most consistent tenpin-er of the week, though, was Len Parsons with series of 603 (204, 204) in the Commercial League; 614 (210, 214) in the Sunday League and 581 (211) in the Senior League, all at Gibson's.

In fivepin competition, honors went to Harry Cool, with an 884 series at Capital City Bowling Alleys.

Top string of games were rolled at Esquimalt where eight keggers bettered the 800 mark, paced by Geoff Worral's 856.

Behind Worral were Ben Price 855, Joan White 853, Alf Leland 850, Tony Bishop 849, Art Beaulieu 838, Eric Ware 818 and Fred Worsley 816.

RIDING BAN LIFTED

Life Begins at 22 For Young Jockey

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver jockey suspended for life six years ago at the age of 16 for riding what was described as "very unsatisfactory" race, was given permission Friday to resume his career on Canadian and United States race tracks.

Richard Rossall, now 22, who was suspended in connection with a race Aug. 18, 1953, at Vancouver's Exhibition Park, said he now is too heavy to ride in a race again.

Earle A. Lewis, presiding steward at Lansdowne Park on nearby Lulu Island, Friday released the following ruling: "Jockey Richard W. Rossall, ruled off all tracks under the jurisdiction of the Vancouver Thoroughbred Association, Limited, for a very unsatisfactory ride on the horse Valley Band . . . is hereby reinstated and restored to good standing on all tracks coming under their jurisdiction."

Rossall recently wrote Lewis, who was in charge of Exhibition Park when the young jockey was ruled off the track, saying he would like to find a place for himself on the race track.

"I am now too heavy to ride," the letter said. "But I thought I might be able to get work exercising horses."

ELLIOTT REAPING REWARDS

SYDNEY (AP) — World record miler Herb Elliott was presented Friday with the Australian commission's "sportsman of the year" trophy at a special ceremony.

Elliott will leave Feb. 4 for the United States to receive the award for The Associated Press athlete of the year at a banquet in Milwaukee Feb. 9. And in Paris, the French Academy of Sports has named Elliott to receive its top award.

Duke's Pay Cut

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Duke Snider has signed his 1959 contract with Los Angeles Dodgers and will draw $40,000.

The Duke received slightly less than that in 1958 and he took the token cut in good grace. The injured knee that kept him out of the lineup last time to him, that season, was a major factor.

FIGHT RESULTS

VERNAL, Utah-Lamar Clark, 353, Cedar City, Utah, knocked out Phil Paxton, 183, Phoenix, 1.

TOKYO, Japan-Yasuda 122-1, Japan, outpointed Pascual Perez, 118, Argentina, 10 (one-dile).

Austin Switches Pro Grid Plans

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — All-American halfback Billy Austin has reversed his field and says he would consider a professional football career, after all.

Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four Football League are reported interested in signing the 170-pound halfback Rutgers University star.

Austin had said he would not consider a pro career because he was too light and that there "was good money but no future" in play-for-pay football.

RIGHT WAY of delivering ball is demonstrated by Foy Belcher, whose right arm forms pendulum during entire swing and remains close to body.

PIN POINTS . . . NO. 10

Elbow Close to Body

This is the 10th of an instructional bowling series written for NEA Service and The Daily Times by temple champions.

By FOY BELCHER, West Coast Champion

At the completion of the first step, the ball has come down past the right knee and naturally the left hand has been disengaged from it.

With the right elbow as close to the body as comfortably possible, the arm should swing backward (on the second step — with the left foot) and forward smoothly in a straight line.

From the time that the ball is pushed away to the point of release, the right arm is perfectly straight just as the pendulum of a clock operates.

The idea is to approach the foul line, so that the arc of the arm swing during the entire delivery forms a right angle with the line.

Elgin 'Strikes' At Segregation

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Rookie Elgin Baylor of Minneapolis Lakers faced possible disciplinary action from National Basketball Association authorities today for his "sitdown strike" in protest over the segregation policies of a local hotel.

The 23-year-old ex-University of Seattle All-American sat on the sidelines Friday night as his Minneapolis teammates bowed to Cincinnati Royals, 95-91. Two other Negro members of the Lakers — Ed Fleming and Boo Ellis — played in the game and each scored six points.

Baylor staged his "sit-down strike" after he and his two Negro teammates were refused admittance at a hotel. Baylor, who was involved in a similar segregation incident at Charlotte, N.C., last month, said he had warned Laker owner Bob Short he would not play if he ever was barred from a hotel again for racial reasons.

NO COMMENT

Coach Johnny Kundia of the Lakers refused to comment about Baylor's action but telephoned a full report on the incident to NBA president Maurice Podoloff in New York. Podoloff called the situation "deplorable" but said he "cannot say what action, if any, the league office can take until I have studied the situation completely."

There were two possibilities of disciplinary action — action the Lakers themselves might take and, of course, action by the league president.

Baylor and all his teammates walked out when the Negroes were barred admittance to the hotel and registered at a nearby Negro motel. Later, a crowd of 2,600 turned out in snow and cold to witness the first regularly scheduled NBA game ever played in Charleston's new civic centre. There were no incidents and few in the crowd were aware of the reason Baylor did not play.

DISAPPOINTED

A little white boy tagged alongside Baylor as he left the arena and told the six-foot five-inch 225-pounder: "I'm very disappointed you didn't play."

"Son," said Baylor, "I'm disappointed myself."

Baylor emphasized that he was sure Laker owner Short was unaware of the segregation situation here.

"They were not even polite at the hotel," said Baylor in recounting the incident. "And we had been assured we wouldn't be asked to play in any place where we might run into such situations."

Soccer Club Relents; Will Post $200 Bond

VANCOUVER (CP) — Queensboro, a Vancouver soccer team which quit soccer last week, has changed its mind. Club officials have notified the B.C. Soccer Commission they want to rejoin the Mainland League.

The team was ordered to post a $200 bond guaranteeing the good behavior of its fans. It first said it would quit the game but now has agreed to post the bond.

The league will discuss a decision at its monthly meeting, Feb. 5.

NANAIMO — Nanaimo, expected to be replaced by Victoria in the Pacific Coast Soccer League, will make a last-ditch stand Sunday to retain its franchise in the summer circuit.

Representatives of the Nanaimo club have asked for a hearing at a meeting of the coast league executive to present their case, although PCSL president Charlie Alcock has said that Victoria would get approval as the league's lone Vancouver Island entry.

REDS, U.S. FAVORED

Canadian Cagers Far Below Form

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Russia and the United States were the co-favorites today after scoring comparatively easy victories in the opening round of the world amateur basketball championships.

Brazil pulled an upset 69-52 win over Canada in its first-round game Friday night.

The U.S., represented by a group of air force all-stars, whipped Argentina 87-73 and Russia, led by seven-foot-two Yan Krumich, downed Mexico 102-72.

Nationalist China, in the same group as the U.S. and Argentina, rallied to beat the United Arab Republic 71-69. Canada played in a group with Brazil, Russia and Mexico.

Bulgaria defeated Puerto Rico 67-55, and the Philippines won 68-59 against Uruguay in the third division.

Defeat for the Canadian team came as a sharp disappointment to coach Fred Collier, Oliver, B.C. He had expected his boys to have an easy time against Brazil.

SLOW START The Canadians got off to a slow start and trailed 30-23 at half time.

Lance Stevens, six-foot-five forward from Port Alberni, led the Canadians with 12 points on four field goals and four foul shots. Doug Brinham, a late addition to the team, scored 10 points on five field goals.

The Brazilians were sharper on grabbing rebounds. They were led by Henry Blatkaukas, top scorer in the game with 20 points.

The Brazilian coach said the Canadians were good, but "slow and laborious."

At the same time the committee warned bantamweight champion Alphonse Halimi to defend his crown by April 15 or face loss of the title. He hasn't had a title fight since Nov. 6, 1957.

Abe J. Greene, national commission of the NBA, said Robinson had told them it would cost him money to make two title fights in one year.

"Ray said he not only would not make any money in fighting a second title fight in one year," said Greene, "but that he would probably have to cut into what was left of his first purse."

BEASTALL ADVISES

Full Sunlight Essential For Good Vegetable Crop

By JACK BEASTALL

There are flowering plants for sunny or shady locations and for damp or dry soils, but the same cannot be said about vegetables. Plants we use for food all require full sun. Success is never attained in shade or partial shade.

We consume these plants for energy, and primarily, energy comes from the sun.

The plants convert it for their own use, and we, in turn, convert it again when the plants are eaten. Therefore an open area is essential if vegetables of any value are to be grown.

If there is any choice at all, the rows of vegetables should run north and south, and there is sound reasoning behind this theory.

The morning sun, which is considered the best growing light, strikes each plant on the east side and continues to reach each plant until late morning.

From 11 o'clock until 2 o'clock on a summer's day, when the sun's heat is greatest, the foliage of the plants is still receiving energy, but at the same time it is sheltering the roots.

As the afternoon progresses and the sun's heat lessens, each plant is again fully exposed, this time on the west side. This makes just about ideal conditions for vegetable growing.

Consider, for a moment, vegetable rows which run east and west. The foliage shades the individual plants in early morning and late afternoon, but during the heat of the day the entire row, and the soil on the south side, receive no protection at all.

EXCEPTION

One problem of north-south planting is the placement of tall growing crops such as runner beans and telegraph peas.

These are often run east and west across the north end of the vegetable plot, which seems to contradict our original theory.

Actually it is opposed, but like so many other gardening processes carried out in a limited space, it is a compromise. The main drawback is no noon heat on the root area. Both peas and beans, in common with most climbing plants, like their heads in full sun and their roots in a shaded, cool, moist soil.

We can create this condition by planting the peas and beans on the north side of a low hedge (10 to 12 inches high), or providing shade from a plank set on edge, or by mulching the soil around the roots. The last arrangement lowers the soil temperature as well as conserving soil moisture.

HABITS VARY

White all vegetables require full sun, some are heat lovers while others bolt to seed as soon as summer temperatures become general.

In the first group we find the original semi-tropicals such as tomato, squash, marrow, pepper, eggplant, okra and cucumber. The second group is represented by lettuce and spinach.

The heat lovers should always be given the most open spot, where the soil temperature will be high enough for rapid and steady growth.

There are varieties of lettuce and spinach which will stand moderate summer heat. If these are not acceptable for growing during the two hottest months we can compromise by using the more common varieties and sowing them among long season crops which will give them partial relief from scorching sun, but not complete shade.

While no set arrangement of a vegetable garden can be given to suit gardens of various shapes and exposures, a little forethought and planning can increase the quantity of vegetables produced, the quality and food values of each plant, and make the vegetable garden a success despite apparently adverse conditions.

WEEK'S WORK

By JACK BEASTALL

Outdoor work of pruning fruit trees and cutting out of blackberry tangles may be done during mild weather.

Ventilate cold frames and greenhouse on all mild days. Cold frame covers should remain raised continuously except in severe frost.

Sow sweet peas indoors in small pots or plant bands.

Sow seed indoors of freesia, tuberous begonia, gloxinia, streptocarpus (Cape Primrose) and Christmas cherry (Solanum capicastrum).

If not already done, and plants are in good condition, dig favorite border chrysanthemums, put into cold frame to provide cuttings later.

Fork lightly between strawberry plants if soil is not heavy with moisture.

Dig over vegetable plots if soil workable.

Shrubs and trees may still be planted as recommended by nurserymen.

QUIZZING THE GARDENER

By JACK BEASTALL

Q—What plants would you suggest for low hedges between sections of the vegetable garden? —J.D.R., Glenora Subdivision.

A—For low hedges of year-round interest, fragrant lavender cannot be beaten. Clipping after the flower spikes are removed will be the only care needed to keep the hedge to the desired height. A hedge of looser habit and most beautiful when allowed to grow to about three feet, is rosemary.

This is also evergreen and fragrant, producing masses of tiny lilac-colored flowers in late May. Should not be sheared, but some of the flowered shoots may be cut back quite drastically.

For plywood, is manufactured to rigid specifications set forth in the Canadian Standards Association publication 0121. It is bonded with a complete waterproof glue and each panel edge marked PMBC EXTERIOR.

Work Starts on Esquimalt High School

Building of New School Relieves Two Problems

The concerted "Do It Now" drive to stimulate winter employment takes many forms, and in Greater Victoria one of the biggest projects is construction of the new $667,000 Esquimalt High School.

The school, aimed at relieving over-crowding at the present Esquimalt High and Mount View High—is being built between Colville and Ellery by Luney Bros. and Hamilton.

Piles for the school arrived this week and piling work is expected to take until mid-February. Gradually the number of men employed on the project will build up to a maximum of 60 or 70.

The school is expected to be finished next October or November.

The annual "Do It Now" program across Canada is in full swing in more than 170 communities.

Labor Minister Starr calls the general response "exceptional" this year. The program has been going on four years, with the current one the most extensive yet.

"The effect is bound to be beneficial to a certain extent this year, and to a much greater degree in succeeding winters through experience and positive results," he said. Pile foundation for new Esquimalt High was being placed this week as part of current "Do It Now" program to combat unemployment.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q—Can you suggest a good buffing agent for aluminum? —G.M.

A—Tripoli powder serves nicely. It's a spongy form of silica that is mixed with a grease-type binder. Made in cake form, you can buy it in several degrees of fineness.

Carelessness was blamed for 92 of the 106 forest fires in the North Bay, Ont., district in 1958; lightning for the rest.

Restraint Achieves Decorating 'Style'

By MARGUERITE DAVIS

United Press International

CHICAGO (UPI) — Most home makers buy too much furniture, says interior decorator Marion Heuer.

They clutter up their rooms with too much furniture and too many colors, she said, and fall prey to "old wives' tales" in decorating—northern exposures require warm colors, for instance.

Mrs. Heuer, whose clients include home owners, apartment building and hotel operators along the wealthy North Shore, believes it is cheaper and smarter to engage a professional interior decorator. But for novices who belong to the do-it-yourself school, she offers a few rules:

—Don't be too price-conscious on each item. Splurge on something important like a cocktail table, then balance by spending less than originally planned on something else.

—Use colors sparingly. A monotone room is restful, and can be enlivened by bright colors in accessories—pillows, wall hangings, or an occasional chair.

—Choose draperies of lightweight material that will allow light to come through. "They should seem part of the wall," she said.

—Combine woods with discretion. "Walnut and cherry are fine with mahogany, but certainly you shouldn't combine 18th century mahogany with blond woods."

Consider the so-called distress finish if there are children in the family. Accidental nicks in the wood can be touched up with dark paint and made to appear part of the original finish.

—Hang accessories with the same knack a well-dressed woman uses in wearing jewelry. "The cheapest can look smart if properly hung. It makes the difference between style and no style," she said.

Good Plan But Mayor To Fight It

Mayor Percy Scurrey Friday said the capital region planning board's master plan "is a good one" but reiterated his previous stand against its adoption by the city.

The mayor and aldermen scanned the still-secret plan at a private meeting Thursday for two hours.

"After a first glance, I would say they have done a lot of work and made a good plan for the region," he said. "But I'm still not going for it."

He said he objected to the "compulsory feature" under which, if adopted by the municipalities, city council could not pass zoning bylaws conflicting with the plan without the board's consent.

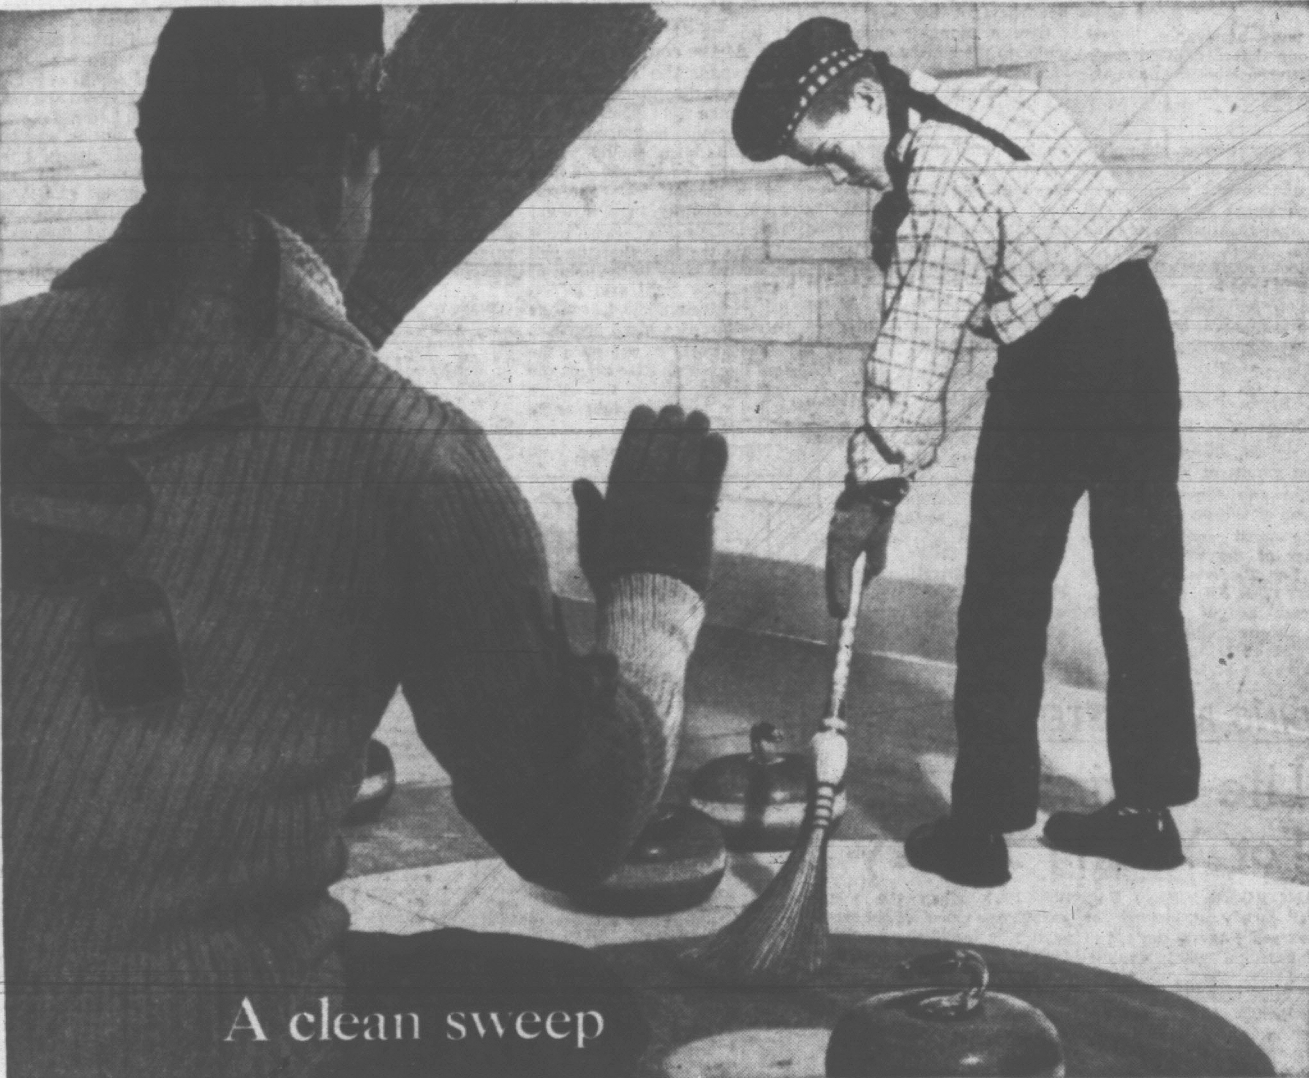

VITAL PRINCIPLE

"I feel there is a very vital principle involved. Our people elected a council to govern the city to the best of its ability. Adoption of the plan would hand over our authority to a board that is not elected by our citizens."

The board consists of representatives from the provincial government, Victoria, Saanich, Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Central Saanich and Sidney.

HANDY PALETTE

One of the easiest ways for a youngster to use his finger paints is to provide a palette made from a piece of plastic-finished Marlite paneling. The dabs of paint are easily wiped off the panel's plastic surface, so the palette will be ready for another "masterpiece."

A clean sweep

for a confident father

The youngster with the broom is making a clean path for the curling stone. Maybe he doesn't realize it yet, but his father is guiding him through life on a path as direct and as smooth. Life insurance is a way to meet the future and a way to save. By insuring his son now, this father is encouraging thrift, building an attitude of mind.

Many people who plan their life insurance programme through The Mutual Life of Canada, take out policies at low cost on the lives of their children: policies the children take over when they start earning. It's a good idea. An idea worth discussing with your Mutual Life of Canada representative — soon.

VICTORIA, B.C., SATURDAY, JANUARY 17, 1959 17

GUESTS 'BRAINWASHED' BY REDUNDANT FLOOD

Victoria's centennial celebrations were washed into limbo Friday night on a veritable flood of elegant redundancy.

A statistician in the audience noted that the phrase "Greater Victoria Centennial Committee" was used by after-dinner speakers 42 times; the word "Centennial," independently, 17 times; and "Greater Victoria," independently, 26 times.

Hands-down winner was chairman Geoff Edgelow, with 46 uses of these phrases. Runner-up was B.C. chairman Lawrie Wallace with 13.

FAIR TRIALS URGED

'Peace Society' Slaps Castro

The board of directors of Victoria's Peace by Peaceful Means Society has wired Fidel Castro urging him to assure Cuban war criminals a fair trial.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

New Glasgow returns Jan. 30.
Sussexvale, Stettler, Antigoni, Bencon Hill, Jonquiere return Feb. 6.
Fraser, Margaree and Skeena return March 20. Crescent goes to Atlantic command.

Meeting in Victoria Friday night, the directors expressed strong feeling that Castro, who has had the sympathy of many Canadians, is showing "little superiority" to the former regime in his present policy of hasty executions.

"Our organization thinks it is important to speak out against violent, brutal solutions to human problems anywhere in the world," said Glen Hamilton, chairman of the society.

"What is really amazing though, is that Canadians can be roused to indignation about the execution of several hundred people when we talk quite openly about a policy of massive retaliation which would involve the mass murder of millions of innocent human beings."

Study groups of the Victoria society are currently debating the role Canada could play in securing international peace.

Following a report by J. Halpin Ford, past president of the local United Nations Association, the directors have voted to affiliate with that organization.

Delegates will be appointed at the next general meeting.

Graham, looking through them, was attracted by the ability which the artist had shown.

On an impulse he wrapped the picture up and sent it to Montreal, to be included in the Canadian entries for Shankar's International Children's Competition at New Delhi, India. As time went by the incident was forgotten. That was nearly two years ago.

WHERE WAS WENDY?

Recently a package arrived at the gallery addressed to Wendy Harris. It was from the School of Art and Design, Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. And shortly afterwards came a letter and a large book, sent from New Delhi.

Wendy had won a prize among entries from 63 countries, sent in by children from four to 16 years of age. And there in the book, with other illustrations, was a reproduction of her picture.

Then began a search for Wendy. No one remembered her or who her teacher had been. Calls to numerous Harrises in the telephone book were unsuccessful. Had she moved away?

Finally, Marian James, associated with the children's art classes and the city schools, checked with all the school classes Wendy might be attending.

And at Margaret Jenkins School she was found.

'GOODWILL MESSAGE'

Today she is the proud possessor of a prize and a book filled with pictures by children all over the world.

In a foreword to the book, Krishna Menon, India's representative to the United Nations, says: "I have little doubt that this publication, which will find a place in the homes, schools and nurseries in so many parts of the world, will serve as a message of fraternity and goodwill and inspire greater fraternity and understanding among peoples and help children to become more world-minded."

With which Wendy Harris fully agrees.

REDUCTION in sentence from dismissal of command to severe reprimand has been announced for Lt. Cmdr. Paul F. Wilson, court martialled here last year in connection with the grounding of HMCS Beacon Hill in Vancouver Harbor while he was commanding officer. In late February Lt. Cmdr. Wilson will take command of another frigate, HMCS Antigonish.

CITY STICKUP SUSPECTS HELD IN CALGARY

Two men have been arrested in Calgary in connection with a New Year's Day hold-up of Darling's Pharmacy Ltd., 624 Fort.

Calgary police arrested the pair for car theft and robbery and they elected to plead to the Victoria charge and similar charges outstanding from Vancouver and the Fraser Valley at the same time, police here said.

At about 7 p.m. Jan. 1 a man stuck "something" in the back of drug clerk L. M. "Dick" Shore after asking for a package of cigarettes.

The customer said "This is a stickup," ordered the clerk to the cash till, then to the back of the store, taking $105 with him when he left.

Two Victoria College students, Glensy Mae Parry and Beulah Marie Marion, have won B.C. history book prizes presented by the Victoria section, B.C. Historical Association.

Miss Parry topped first year history students in Christmas examinations and Miss Marion led second-year students.

Each will receive a set of eight books.

The cruise ship St. Lellani, which made one call here a year ago Sunday, has been withdrawn from the Pacific Coast-Hawaii service.

Chamber of Commerce and tourist officials here had hoped the ship would again call at this port. A crowd of 3,000 welcomed her at Ogden Point on her last visit.

Comets of the ship, Traveller, Textron Inc., say that revenue was not sufficient to overcome operating losses.

Equimault Municipal Council will meet Monday starting at 7:30 p.m.

Centennial 'Bequest' Bonus for Auditorium

By PETER MATTHEWS

Greater Victoria's booming Centennial show rang down the curtain at the Empress Hotel Friday night—but not before producing a $10,000 "encore" which brought cheers and applause from the enthusiastic audience of 200.

Vice-chairman Gerald K. Sammon broke the good news. Any monies left over from the celebrations, he said, would be put into a "Greater Victoria Civic Auditorium Trust Fund."

Centennial committee chairman Ald. Geoff Edgelow said today the amount would be "at least $10,000, and we hope for $12,000 or $13,000."

Sale of the colorful, but limp, civic balloons—described by Councillor Sammon as "our venture into space"—will produce more revenue for the new fund.

Bennett Pledges University Here

A second major good-news bonus came when Premier Bennett declared flatly: "Victoria will have a university of its own."

His announcement also was greeted with cheers and applause.

The Premier did not amplify his remark.

Asked to respond to a toast to "the next 100 years," the Premier said:

"The past is behind us—now we must look ahead."

"As recently as 1874 there were just 40,000 persons in this province."

Silent Tributes, Merit Awards

"We have worked with the most cooperative government any lieutenant-governor has ever had."

"We would like to express our gratitude and pride at the honor of acting as your number one citizens."

Silent tributes were paid during the evening to three men closely associated with the celebrations, who have since died: Hon. Gordon Sloan, former councillor; Charles H. G. Mann of Oak Bay and Norman "Cappy" Foster.

"Merit award" certificates were presented to the following:

Rev. F. E. H. James, Commodore H. V. W. Groos, Jack Lee—representing the Victoria Chinese community, Cmdr. D. L. McKnight; Mrs. Gwen

HITCHHIKER ATTACK FOILED

Wrench 'Evened' 3 Against One

An attack by three hitchhikers on a Victoria motorist trying to do a good turn backfired violently when the motorist turned out to be a more than unwilling victim.

In Sidney court Friday, charged with assault with intent to steal, were three boys aged 17, 16 and 13 years. They were remanded to Jan. 24 for plea.

Arthur Richard Kay, 924 Market, a city merchant, told the story today of how he picked up three young men on the Patricia Bay Highway Thursday night.

"It was raining," he said, "and I didn't like to see these boys out in the weather, so I offered them a ride. They said they wanted to go to Telegraph Road, but when we got there it was still raining, so I offered to drive them to their destination. They directed me, and we finally stopped. "For no good reason I happened to look in my mirror, and saw the shadow of an arm swinging at me. I ducked, but not quite fast enough, and got a good deal of the blow. As I bent forward my arm pressed the door handle down, quite by accident, but I took advantage of the chance to slide out of the car."

"I WAS BOSS"

"As I said, I grabbed a tire wrench that I kept beside my seat. When I stood up with that 'evened' in my hand, I knew right away I was boss, and that I'd have no trouble with them."

Mr. Kay said the youth in the back seat had struck him with a stapler. He put the two larger boys in the front seat with him, threatened them with the wrench, and took them to Saanich police at Royal Oak.

"I had made them empty their pockets first to make sure they had nothing else to attack me with," he said. "They didn't want to get into the car, but they didn't like the look of that wrench."

"When they didn't knock me out in the first place I figured they were rank amateurs, and that I wouldn't be in danger from them."

$112,000 Contract Let For New BCE Substation

A $112,000 contract for general construction of the new E. N. Horsey substation on Summit Street, has been awarded to Commonwealth Construction Co. of Victoria and Vancouver, B.C. Electric announced today. A contract of $37,000 for electrical installation was previously awarded to Hume & Rumble Ltd.

The former woodyard site has been cleared of waste, and surveys are now on the job. Situated in the Topaz area, the new substation will be built in stages, and will eventually supplant the Bay Street substation.

First phase of the development will place the new station in service this fall.

Approximately $700,000 worth of equipment, including a major transformer, is already on hand.

Initially the station will serve four circuits, which in the ultimate development will be increased to 24. As a step-down station, it will cut incoming voltage from 132,000 to 12,000 volts. Power will be fed to the new station from George Tripp substation in Saanich by underground cable. Ducts to carry the cable over the 2½-mile route were prepared last winter and installation of cable, with local workmen doing the job, is under way.

Jack Catterall, 4220 Quadra, told police someone broke into his car and stole a topcoat and six bottles of beer as the car was parked a half block away from the police station on Elsgard between 12:50 and 1:20 a.m. today.

SPEEDER'S FATHER RAPS 'DISCRIMINATION'

Thomas Accused of Anti-Labor Bias

Victoria labor leader Victor Midgley today accused Magistrate A. J. Thomas of "bias against labor" in his handling of a speeding case involving Midgley's son.

Mr. Midgley then launched into an angry attack of Mr. Thomas' treatment of the boy in court.

"My son was treated like a hoodlum and not allowed to say anything in court."

COULDN'T SPEAK

"Richard was very well dressed, with a fresh haircut, and well-mannered. He couldn't be judged on what he said as he was not allowed to say anything. I know, I was there."

Friday Magistrate Thomas said all cases in his court were treated "impartially on their merits," with no special consideration given anyone over another person.

"In each case I acted on the evidence available."

Mr. Gagliardi today denied receiving any preferential treatment, adding, "I have never asked for any such treatment."

The Times learned that the charge against Mr. Gagliardi arose at 7 a.m. one morning when he was driving to Vancouver airport to catch a PWA plane.

Fog was rolling in and the minister put on speed to beat it and make his appointment. His speed was 55 m.p.h.

Subsequently, Mr. Gagliardi sent a deputy to court to hear the charge.

It is understood that the minister has refused a police escort when on public business and felt that he had been "behaving himself" since the first infraction 20 months ago.

At the time, Mr. Gagliardi pointed out that he had been driving for 33 years and had never been involved in a major accident.

WENDY HARRIS
... with silver bowl art prize from India.

INTERNATIONAL ART PRIZE

Wendy Wins Fame at Nine

Not many artists win international acclaim at the age of nine. But fame has come early to Gwendolyn Harris, of 24 Sylvan Lane.

Wendy has won a prize from New Delhi, India, for a painting she did at the Art Gallery children's classes two years ago.

MONTE ROBERTS

An argument with My Favorite Wife is seldom productive of success.

But it is always stimulating, frequently interesting, and at times educational.

For instance, an argument we had last night was definitely of high educational value, for it taught me what is wrong between the Communists and the rest of the world.

Not that the argument My Favorite Wife and I were indulging in had anything to do with Communism, or capitalism.

We were, in fact, arguing about pugilism. MFW, for some reason, has the opinion that Jack Dempsey was the greatest fighter who ever lived, and not only that, but a clever boxer, too.

Now, any fool who has looked at the record books... But that is another story. I just wanted you to understand that an argument with MFW may not be productive of good, solid, common sense on the subject about which the argument revolves.

On the other hand, an argument with MFW may lead to a profound conclusion about something else entirely.

Which was the case last night, for when I finally backed MFW into a corner with a flow of eloquent, irrefutable logic, MFW fought her way out with this deathless pronouncement:

"Everything you say is completely correct, but I do not agree with a single word of it."

You see what I mean?

This rhetorical gem sums up the exact attitude which the Communists have toward the rest of the world, and which the rest of the world has toward the Communists.

You must try an argument with MFW some time. Everything you say will be completely correct, but she won't agree with a single word of it.

Private note to "Canadian Sailor": I found your letter extremely interesting and would like to see it in print, but we must have your name for the record. It will be kept in confidence.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Hugh A. Daubeny, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. C. Daubeny, 1103 Glenora Place, received his Ph.D. degree from Cornell University during the present fall term, the university announced today.

Tony Marsh and Michael Perks, Ethel Cleworth and Dorothy McConnell, Ann Kocutyn and Douglas Tuck, Albert Jones and Frank Artlett, Joe Lukas and Dick Lipsey.

Meat is for the armed forces.

$3 costs in Sidney RCMP court today for hunting game birds from a power boat.

Police said a game warden caught Sam in waters off Brentwood where he had shot a dozen birds with a shotgun. The birds were confiscated.

Accident victim Edward D. Miles, 35, of 3366 Wordsworth, was "unchanged" in critical condition at Jubilee Hospital today after receiving a skull fracture and multiple injuries Tuesday about 3 p.m.

Miles was driver of a car in collision with an auto driven at Scott and Ryan by Clara L. Brown, 2664 Scott, and was thrown from the driver's seat to the pavement with the impact.

Seventh Day Members Pay Huge Tithe

In order to carry on a strong denominational program, the Seventh Day Adventist Church, Pandora Avenue, contributed $27,000—$135 per member—to the tithe during 1958.

Local expense was $4,503 while $13,000 was contributed to medical, educational and "uplift" work in Victoria and elsewhere in Canada.

Following church officers were elected:

A. Vincent; medical secretary, Dr. Reuben Matkko; Sunday school superintendent, Ben Kuiram; Dorcas welfare leader, Mrs. David Welch; young peoples' leader, Mrs. Elsie Kuiram.

Remembrance Books Urged

A Book of Remembrance—in all churches containing the names of members' deceased relatives, is being advocated here by H. W. Hart, 833 Falkland Road.

Only a comparatively few persons are remembered in churches by brass, stone or stained glass but "the poorest and humblest could be enrolled in a Book of Remembrance as silent, unseen members of a spiritual union," he says.

Introduction of this personal note would be of "inestimable" help and comfort, "and it might fill empty pews," Mr. Hart states.

Borderline Christians, rarely seen in places of worship, might find in the Book of Remembrance the required incentive for a more serious consideration of things spiritual.

Mr. Hart is also endeavoring to win support for his idea in Great Britain.

Volunteers Needed

CHEMAINUS—A community work party will be held Sunday at Fuller's Lake where a seven-acre public park is being developed as a community project.

7.30 p.m. "Down Over the Hills" Ministry Film.

WIDELY KNOWN evangelist who has just ended a U.S. coast-to-coast speaking tour, Bakht Singh, Bible expositor of India and a former Sikh, will speak at Alliance Tabernacle, 1039 Yates Monday through Sunday at 7.30 p.m. More than 200 Christian church assemblies in India have been founded by him. He visited Victoria about 25 years ago.

CATHOLICS TO PROTEST MIKOYAN

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla. (AP)—The bells of scores of Roman Catholic churches will ring in protest Tuesday when Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan visits Florida.

Archbishop Joseph Patrick Hurley of the St. Augustine diocese has called on all Catholics in his diocese to attend special masses Tuesday "on this mournful occasion when Mikoyan defiles the soil of Florida."

He recommended the masses be accompanied by the tolling of church bells.

Centennial WA Opens Year

Eighty members attended the year's first activity of Centennial United Church WA this week, a "pot luck" supper in the church hall.

Guests included Rev. and Mrs. Douglas Carr and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Johnstone.

It was reported that after all WA obligations had been met, more than $1,000 was still left in the treasury, and that the WA has re-affiliated with the Protestant Orphanage and the local Council of Women.

Some 250,000 Canadian Boy Scouts and Scout leaders will observe Boy Scout Week Feb. 16-22, 1959.

Baby Dawdles Over Food? This Dish Keeps It Hot!

By PENNY SAVER

Unless baby has an extraordinary appetite, mothers will know how difficult it is to get him to eat his dinner without dawdling.

His food will stay hot if it's served in this china dish with aluminum plate for holding hot water underneath. The dish is deep and features sections for the various foods. A top comes with the set which is priced at $2.99.

Here's a special on baby's rubber pants. These long wearing pastel-toned garments are priced at 49 cents a pair. Bet you don't know where!

Children's socks are also a terrific bargain at this shop. Knitted in England, the colorful stockings are in ankle length and are selling at two pairs for $1.

I'm all agog about the adorable Swiss knitted skirts for little girls! The all-hand stitched garments feature authentic mountaineer braces with delicate embroidery trimming the half-inch straps. These warm and attractive skirts can be worn over sweaters or blouses and are priced down at $7.48. (Here's a secret: they were $14.95 before the sale!)

There's a matching sweater for the wee gal's knitted skirt. It's heavy and cosy with snowflake designs on the front and back. Here again is a garment priced down from $8 to $5.98.

With January clearance sales in full swing, don't miss out on some of the tremendous buys offered in town just now! Give me a buzz at EV 2-3131 and I'll be glad to tell you where I saved pennies.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Shampoo, Too, Even Though You Touch Up Your Hair

Many women who touch up their hair are likely to let too much time elapse between shampoos. Just because you are beguiled with the lovely new color do not neglect your usual good grooming habits. It is true that the indiscriminate use of strong bleaches and dyes may be drying, but well cared for hair can remain vital and healthy through years of cosmetic color changes. Touchups or not, do not neglect to shampoo your hair as often as is needed.

Whether you wash your own hair or have it done at a beauty salon be sure that it is brushed well first. This stirs up circulation and helps remove the first film of oil. Apply the shampoo only after your hair is completely wet. Massage the suds into your scalp as well as into your hair. Later twice and rinse at least twice in between rinsing. You can tell when your hair is clean and free of soap when it squeaks between your fingers.

Very oily hair may require more suds and more rinsing than dryer locks. Massage before the shampoo, and in-between times as a daily habit, is beneficial to both oily and dry hair since this tends to normalize the little oil glands in the scalp. If your hair is dry, touch the ends with a bit of oil or hair lotion after it dries following the shampoo. Grey hair is extremely smart and becoming to many women.

However, the woman with grey hair must be even more careful about the care of her hair if it is to be attractive. The yellow tinge which some grey hair takes on is a problem for many women. This of course is most alluring. However a blue rinse will hide this. The trick is to use just enough to hide the yellow but not enough to make you appear blue headed.

Most of the beauty aids which produce such lovely results are quite simple, and good old-fashioned cleanliness is one of the best of all complexion and hair aids.

DEAR ABBY...

Have a Heart-To-Heart Talk

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl who has one more year of college left. I'm in love with a reliable boy who has already graduated. He wants to marry me when I graduate but my parents object to him for a reason he cannot help. He has diabetes. He explained that his diabetes is "under control" but my parents think I am taking a big risk by marrying a diabetic. They tell me I will be a "diet cook" and a "nurse" for the rest of my life. I love this boy, Abby. What can I do?

UPSET.

DEAR UPSET: Your parents should have a long talk with the boy's doctor to find out how severe his case is. Diabetes can be "controlled." When your parents know more about it they will be less prejudiced.

DEAR ABBY: I have a 1936 nickel. Could you please tell me how much it's worth?

WILBUR. DEAR WILBUR: Five cents.

DEAR ABBY: At Christmas time my husband's boss gave our five-year-old boy a puppy. I know nothing about training dogs and my husband travels, so he's no help. This gift has been more trouble and expense than it's worth. He's spotted my carpet and is teething on the legs of my dining room chairs. My husband is afraid if we give it away his boss might find out. To make matters worse, our son is getting attached to the puppy. I wish you'd tell us what to do. Also, put this in the paper to wake up folks who mean well but cause others headaches by giving them a gift they can't

Thrift Shop Must Move

Discussion took place at meeting of the Junior Auxiliary to Royal Jubilee Hospital on the possibilities of finding new quarters for the Thrift Shop.

Run by the auxiliary for more than 25 years at a location in the Market Building, on Cormorant Street, the shop will have to move when the building is demolished in the spring.

Appeal has been presented to City Council in an effort to find suitable new quarters. Plans were made to purchase three new tubular wheel chairs for the emergency admitting office.

Date of the annual meeting was set for Feb. 2 at 2.30 p.m. Miss M. Bradley, medical social service director at the hospital thanked convener Mrs. F. G. Aldous and members who decorated the wards and corridors at the holiday season and the committee convened by Mrs. T. F. Rose and Mrs. F. Bartholomew that distributed flowers and gifts to both in and out patients. Mrs. Keith Dixon presided.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

STATIONERY FOR MEN

Is it correct for men to use engraved informals?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

Men's stationery for personal letter-writing varies in size according to preference. The average small size is about 6 to 8 inches, single sheet. Some men prefer a larger size sheet, approximately 7 1/2 by 10 1/2 inches. Their choice depends on the size of their handwriting and on the average length of their letters. Some men like the printed name and address at the top. Whatever they choose in these ranges is optional and in equally good taste. However, for acknowledging formal invitations, plain stationery, about 4 by 5 inches when folded (or a little larger) is traditional and correct for men as well as women.

Veterans Use Many Books

Woman's Auxiliary to Veterans Hospital met recently with Mrs. Eric Young presiding. Mrs. G. Talbot reported giving out 229 library books; Mrs. A. G. Woodhouse sold dogwoods to the amount of $74.85; Mrs. G. Ree had visited 242 patients with gifts; Mrs. H. F. Jarvis gave six patients birthday cards and gifts. Mrs. G. E. Lane told of a successful bake sale. It was decided to donate to class 29 patients sunrooms, two TV sets and five cribbage tables.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By NONA DAMASKE

Up at Dawn for Early Shoe Show

Times fashion editor Nona Damaske is in eastern Laid sister for the spring and summer showings of the Couture Group of the New York Dress Institute. She is writing of her experiences in this column.

NEW YORK—The rosy glow of a sunrise greeted me as I looked from my window at 6.30 a.m. No, I was not just getting in. I was getting up to attend the Capozio "Dewy Morn" breakfast.

Regular members of the Dress Institute begin showings at 8 a.m. but many auxiliary members tempt the editors out earlier or after five by presenting unusual and interesting shows.

Capozio shoes are fun-different, gay and soft as gloves. Highlight of this collection is the emergence of the short, shaped Queen Anne heel.

BEN REIG accents the natural waistline but keeps his clothes at last season lengths. This designer is noted for his marvellous detailing. . . . he uses the flounced hemline over and over again.

HARRY FRECHTEL recognizes the beginning of a return to the fitted suit. Several coats used large patch pockets for the gal who wishes to tote her toy poodle along.

Many disc buttons. . . slender skirts with high rise Torador waistlines. . . skirts with wide box pleats swinging out from petticoats with a row of stiffening at the hemline.

Big news in the TRIGERE collection is the "skeleton" coat, an audacious cross between a coat and a stole. It is perfectly tailored, neatly fastened at the front and has nothing at all except a capelet at the back. "Allegro," is the name this designer gives her short, full blown, sleeveless which are somewhat reminiscent of old-fashioned lamp shades.

OLEG CASSINI presented his usual gay and witty show. He is one designer who resisted the chemise and now, of course, can say "I told you so." He commentates his own show and has a name for each design. For instance, a close-fitting sheath—"Shape well before using!"

Luncheon with Ship-a-Shore was delightful. Michael Brown arranged a take-off on "The Pleasure of His Company" and we were honored by a visit from four leading members of the cast.

Charlie Ruggles gave his impression of a New York model. (I do wish I had a camera and could take pictures.)

Quote from LARRY ALDRICH: "Checks are the expression of spring in a woman's clothes." He uses a great deal of Forstman wool and in his solid color dresses there is a swing to very strong shades.

He likes the double-breasted suit and jacket and shows styles in two, four and six button. White wool girdled in gold kid, was used for two cocktail dresses.

The floating chiffon shirt-waist dresses are delightful, especially one of nutmeg brown with a large self fabric rose at the waistline.

LILY DACHE flew home from Paris to be with us for a cocktail hour. She is delightful, all sparkle and vivacity.

Theme of her show was "tea and saki." Green tea, warm saki and fortune cookies were served by diminutive Oriental beauties in authentic costumes. The entire millinery collection had a definite feeling of the Orient and the pale translucent make-up which the models were wearing reminded me of the make-up used by Kabuki dancers.

SIDELIGHTS

Believe it or not we have a six-foot, three-inch crew-cut male fashion editor attending press week. He is from Norfolk, Va., and how he gets any work done, I don't know. He is always being interviewed or televised. His wife came with him and she cannot even see one of the fashion shows. That's a real switch, isn't it?

Social Members of James Bay Christ Church Cathedral Parish Guild gathered recently at the home of Mrs. J. D. Crowther, Carnarvon Road, for their annual social evening. Presents were exchanged and refreshments served.

CLUB WOMEN'S NEWS

Bennett introduced the new study book on North America, entitled "Concerns of a Continent" at recent meeting of Centennial United Church Evening Auxiliary, Woman's Missionary Society. Meeting was held at home of Mrs. J. W. Birtwistle. Miss Mary Wilson conducted installation of officers.

Building Fund—Treasurer Mrs. W. Ronald reported at annual meeting of the Women's Guild, St. David's-by-the-Sea, that $1,375 had been raised during the year and that $1,100 had been put into the new church building fund. Chief money-making events were a rummage sale, tea and two bazaars. Mrs. K. M. Lewis was re-elected president; Mrs. S. Morgan Hobbs, vice-president; Mrs. J. H. Mitchell, secretary and Mrs. Ronald, treasurer.

sure, Rev. R. J. Welsh conducted the election. Mrs. P. A. Williams, Mrs. J. Wyper and Mrs. Hobbs will convene the spring tea at the beginning of April. Tea was served at close of the meeting by Mrs. J. Stevenson, Mrs. D. McKay, Mrs. Ronald, Mrs. Hobbs, Mrs. L. Michin and Mrs. Wyper.

Thank You—At recent meeting of Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter, IOOE, a letter was read from Dr. Elizabeth Mahaffy, Victoria Esquimalt Health Department, thanking the chapter for a donation of $200 for milk for undernourished school children. Mrs. J. C. MacDonald, regent, presided. Plans were discussed for spring projects.

Nominations—Mrs. F. Schek was nominated president of the Women's Auxiliary No. 65 to Typographical Union 201 at recent meeting. Named vice-president was Mrs. R. Fawcus and Mrs. L. Valentine, secretary-treasurer. Annual birthday banquet was discussed and date was set for February 12 in Princess Mary Restaurant.

His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Frank Mackenzie Ross, at right, were welcomed by Greater Victoria centennial committee chairman, Alderman C. I. Edgelow, on arrival at the reception which preceded dinner in Empress Hotel.

Lieutenant-Governor Praises Wife; 'No Success Without Her'

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Voice softened by emotion and Scottish accent deepened by the sincerity of his words, Lieutenant-Governor Frank Mackenzie Ross paid tribute to his wife, Friday evening in the Empress Hotel.

Replying to a toast proposed to him by Alderman Capt. D. J. Proudfoot, at a dinner arranged to honor the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee and to mark close of the centennial year in this city, the Lieutenant-Governor told the gathering:

"The office I hold is emblematic. You see me as the representative of the Queen. But I am really like every other man. If I cannot find my collar button when I am getting dressed in the morning or if things go wrong in my home . . . it is my wife to whom I turn.

"I could not have fulfilled my work during our centennial year as well as you say I have done, if my wife had not been at my side."

Mrs. Ross, the Lieutenant-Governor said, on three different occasions had quietly and efficiently cleared the family home in Vancouver for Royalty to move in—first the Queen Mother, then Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands and finally, Princess Margaret.

"All our personal effects, had to be packed away; every drawer had to be cleared and the home we had lived in for 15 years had to be left ready for new tenants."

During the visit of Princess Margaret, his wife had not only acted as hostess but had planned moves of Government House from Victoria to Kelowna and then back to Vancouver, His Honor pointed out.

Staff, china cutlery—all were included in the move. The split-second timing needed for such a manoeuvre was important, the Lieutenant-Governor said, Mrs. Ross had it planned to the very last second.

"For instance, the Princess left Kelowna at noon," His Honor pointed out. "She was in our home in Vancouver at 5 o'clock the same afternoon."

"I'm proud to be able to tell you that my wife, whom we had left to close Government House in the interior, was there to greet her."

His Honor concluded: "My wife had a much harder part to play in our centennial year than I did."

PRIDE OF EFFORT

The Lieutenant-Governor added:

"During the past 12 months, we have travelled more than 100 miles in British Columbia. We visited more than 100 places. Everywhere we found the same enthusiasm, the same satisfaction and pleasure in individual efforts for centennial year."

"That pride of effort and that enthusiasm carried us to success."

"It has made us the envy of every other province in Canada."

Tables in the Crystal Ballroom where guests were seated in groups of eight, were centred with daffodils and hyacinths. Red carnations decorated the head table where, seated with His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Ross and the chairman, Alderman Geoffrey Edgelow and Mrs. Edgelow, were Premier W. A. C. Pianist Combines Home, Career

By MARIE MILBURN

Petite and patrician Winifred Wood proves that a career woman can be a good wife and homemaker too.

Talent and energy have put Winifred among England's top pianists and teachers. But she is a top-notch housewife, too, with the house cleaning, cooking and entertaining worked into a crowded schedule of teaching and performing.

"This isn't the English woman's ideal at all," she says. "They feel their sphere is the home and they are part of a timeless feminine tradition. They use their influence more through the back door."

"Drudge" was what I thought at first, but they do have a point. We Canadian women don't really understand the terrific power women have in their own right. We are confused and nervous. We try to break into the man's world and often lose sight of our own."

HUSBAND-WIFE TEAM

Special part of Winifred Wood's career is that she works so much with her husband, Victoria-born Robin Wood. They spend many hours together on programs and practicing. Being husband and wife, they each make their own unique contribution.

"Paradoxically, the minute we start playing the man-woman relationship disappears," Mrs. Wood explains seriously.

"We are suddenly absolutely equal. We must think along the same lines. Luckily, Robin and I do. We know instinctively how the other wants a thing played."

Full of energy, the dark-haired artist points out that a musical life for a woman has its drawbacks.

"It is so physically-exhaust-

Mrs. Robin Wood, who appears as guest artist with her husband at symphony concerts this weekend.

ing that most women just can't take it."

This brilliant pianist was born in Winnipeg. Following two years' piano study in New York, she won a scholarship to London's Royal Academy (the same scholarship that her husband won).

Almost from the first term Robin and Winifred were together as a two-piano team.

"I hadn't even considered two-piano work before," she muses now.

On tour in Canada for three months, it is the teaching Winifred misses most. "I have some exceptionally talented students in a famous grammar school in London's east end. It is the size of a small Canadian high school and the music department is outstanding."

"Where a Victoria school would have one general music teacher, it has special teachers for almost all instruments; five piano teachers and masters for flute, clarinet, cello, singing and even for ancient instruments like the recorder."

Why do so many Canadian musicians go to England? A musician on this continent must concertize exclusively. He is always under a killing strain.

"In England and Europe, living is more relaxed and you can combine playing with teaching. You can't do that in Canada. The distances are too great and there just aren't enough opportunities to play. "It is the teaching-playing balance we must have." So until Canada can offer the same life to her musicians, Robin and Winifred will have to live in exile and we will hear them only when they make their too infrequent tours.

"Early Victorian"

Quite near our house, here in Oak Bay, an old estate . . . has had . . . its day: The home still gracious . . . well back the road. 'Twas an antique filled . . . the china Spode. A long curved drive teases in, So I sauntered along, & pecked within. The great rooms empty, yet I saw a lorgnette.

And old fashioned couples in a min-u-et. I paused awhile ('course my hearing false). The music changed . . . a fast swirly waltz. I blinked my eyes, the rooms empty again. But back in the garden, still the refrain. Weather white benches, still on the lawn. In the tea-house chair from far Ceylon. I mused along, a stepping-stone path. Brushed out leaves . . . a marble bird-bath. A rose trellis I straightened, by a ravine. Walked 'neath the arch, wrought-iron & rust-green. Bird-whistles low, or high & aloof. One had an angel, and a tiny thatched roof. 'Twas all very quiet, yet someone called Dennis. "I say . . . there . . . anyone for tennis?" I spun around, 'course no one was there. I seemed to sense laughter every where. I talked to myself, a queerish fear. "I think I better . . . get out of here." But the sun-dial tugged, midst the flowers. "I record," it said, "ONLY . . . THE SUNNY HOURS."

Shoop's second bid of pass. He realized that he had

Leaders of 11,800 B.C. civil servants were jubilant today over the possibility that collective bargaining, long sought by the B.C. government employees, may soon be a part of civil service administration.

The prospect—voiced by officials of the B.C. Government Employees' Association both in Victoria and Vancouver—came on the heels of an announcement in Ottawa Friday that a major overhaul and streamlining of the federal civil service is in the offing.

Included in the shake-up would be a form of collective bargaining, recommended by the Civil Service Commission.

"This is quite a morale-booster," said Dennis Heinekey, Victoria association official.

Although the streamlining recommendations will not have any direct bearing on the administration in B.C., collective bargaining for federal civil servants would definitely affect us here.

ent and harmonious organization" if it were granted the rights of other labor groups.

Association B.C. secretary Ed O'Connor declined to comment on the recommendations in general, adding, however, that "I don't believe any federal (civil service) shake-up would have any effect in B.C."

However, another Vancouver official of the BCGEA was "very hopeful we shall now get what we have been after for a long, long time."

SUNSHINE MAYBE

Cloudy skies tonight will give way to partial clearing Sunday, weatherman William Mackie said today.

"We might even have some sunshine," he said.

The improving weather will follow the passage of a small disturbance tonight, he said.

Winds will be southwesterly at 15 miles per hour, and temperatures will range between 38 and 48 degrees.

"It is obvious collective bargaining must come to B.C.'s civil servants eventually," he said. "This may be the turning point."

He said "one of the most exciting recommendations" made by the Civil Service Commission was one calling for government salaries "to be comparable to those paid by private firms for similar classes of work."

"If this doesn't give the Bennett government the green light to pay B.C. civil servants what they are worth, then I shall be surprised," he said.

The official added that "of course, we in B.C. are not directly affected by what goes on in Ottawa" but he thought the recommendations made by the federal commission would "overflow" into B.C.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Three workmen were killed today in an explosion at the nearby Duquesne works of U.S. Steel Corporation. The victims were working in the blast furnace department.

UNABLE TO ATTEND FUNERAL

(See Also Page 5)

Attorney General Robert Bonner was prevented from attending the funeral of Gordon Sloan in Victoria Friday when his chartered seaplane was forced down on the water near Whidbey Island.

Mr. Bonner was to have been a pallbearer at the funeral.

Speaking from Vancouver today, Mr. Bonner said he chartered a plane in Seattle in order to get back to Victoria in time for the funeral.

"The ceiling was so low the aircraft was forced down to about 50 feet off the water," he told the Times. "Then we made a forced landing on the water off Whidbey Island and I went ashore by boat."

attend because of fog at the airport in Vancouver were H. McMillan and Harold Foley, prominent figures in the lumber industry, who had been designated honorary pallbearers.

However, Walter Koerner of Vancouver, whose name was not included in original lists of honorary pallbearers, was present.

"From there I drove to Everett and on to Vancouver by bus. It is a matter of deep regret to me that I was unable to attend the last rites for Mr. Sloan," Mr. Bonner is remaining in Vancouver over the weekend and will return to Victoria Monday.

The attorney-general's place as a pallbearer was taken by Cmdr. Gar Dixon, secretary to Government House.

Miracle Escape In Air Crash

(Times News Services)
BUENOS AIRES—One man miraculously escaped death when an Argentine airliner crashed into the sea Friday night, killing 50 persons.

Robert Servente, his clothes burned and torn, was found four hours after the crash lying on the beach near the Argentine seaside resort of Mar del Plata.

All others aboard the plane were trapped and drowned when it sank in 75 feet of water about 150 yards from shore. By midday, searchers had recovered 34 bodies.

Servente could not explain how he managed to escape. He said there was no indication of trouble before the twin-engine Curtiss Commando crashed.

The plane split in two when it hit, he said.

The airliner was on a special summertime vacation flight from Buenos Aires to Mar del Plata, 240 miles to the south, and then to Bahia Blanca, another 260 miles west.

It was coming in for a landing at Mar del Plata in windy and rainy weather when it smashed into the ocean.

NO FOREIGNERS

The airline said it carried 46 passengers and a crew of five.

A caretaker at a resort park said the plane apparently developed trouble as it came down for a landing, tried to gain altitude and then plunged into the sea.

Among those on the passenger list were Eduardo Braun Menéndez, one of Argentina's most famous scientists, and Dr. Jose Mezzadra, another well-known scientist. There was no immediate confirmation that they actually had been aboard.

The plane belonged to Austral Airlines.

WIRE BRIEFS

Riots in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (Reuters)—Riots broke out today in a working class district of the city in protest at police action against 5,000 strikers who have taken over the national meat-packing plant. Sympathy strikes by other workers also were reported.

B.C. Strike Ends

VANCOUVER (CP)—Employees of the Flavelle Cedar Division of the Canadian Collieries who have been on strike at the company's Port Moody mill near Vancouver since Wednesday, have voted to return to work on Monday.

$1M Damage in Fire

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A spectacular fire Friday night destroyed the Atlantic Hardware Industries plant at Donovan's, six miles from here, causing damage estimated at $1,000,000 and leaving 100 men without work.

U.K. Deputy Quits

LONDON (Reuters)—Allan Noble, retired navy commander and one of Britain's two deputy foreign ministers, today resigned his post because "I do not wish to spend the rest of my life in politics."

He will be succeeded by John D. Profumo, 43, parliamentary undersecretary at the foreign office.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our Father, we turn to Thee because we are perplexed. As a church, we have so often failed Thee. Forgive our indifference. We have built great temples of worship, but have lost the zeal for the worshiper. Give us preachers and laymen who by their teaching and example will prove to the world that aside from God life is meaningless. Let our interest not be alone in increasing our membership, but rather let our supreme purpose be to lead souls into the new way of life in Christ's name. Amen.

West Will Hold Berlin Position

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration has told Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan that the United States and its allies are determined to preserve their position and their rights in West Berlin.

This was disclosed today shortly after President Eisenhower conferred with the Soviet visitor for an hour and 45 minutes in his White House office.

Eisenhower and Mikoyan talked about the Berlin situation and several other issues in dispute between Russia and the United States.

Both agreed there had been a useful exchange of views. But the White House press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said no new proposals were made during the meeting. American officials had hoped Mikoyan might indicate a Soviet willingness to make concessions on Berlin and other German issues.

State Secretary Dulles and other officials participated in the conference in Eisenhower's office.

Dulles, it was learned, emphasized to Mikoyan in talks Friday that the U.S. has the solid support of its allies in its firm determination to remain in Berlin. He said the U.S. would not accept the substitute of the East German regime in East Berlin for the Soviet government insofar as relations between Russia and the Western powers are concerned.

Mikoyan, for his part, was reported as saying that Premier Nikita Khrushchev definitely intends to go through with his proposals to turn over Soviet powers in East Berlin to the East German government if the U.S., Britain and France have not accepted his proposal to end the four-country occupation of Berlin by May 27.

Russia Wants 'Counter-Offers'

But Mikoyan said repeatedly that the Soviet government does not regard the fixing of this deadline as an ultimatum, according to qualified informants.

At the same time the Soviet official urged counter-proposals from the Western side. Hagerty said other subjects discussed today were disarmament, increased trade and freer exchanges of persons between Russia and the U.S.

The press secretary said there was no mention of any visit by Premier Khrushchev to the United States nor a visit of Vice-President Richard Nixon to the Soviet Union. There had been speculation about such visits.

Hagerty declined to answer directly when asked whether the subject of a possible summit conference or a four-power East-West meeting came up. He said: "I've gone as far as I can."

When the meeting in Eisenhower's office broke up, Mikoyan appeared briefly before reporters.

The Soviet deputy minister delivered a personal message from his chief, Nikita Khrushchev, wishing Eisenhower good health and "success on the road to better relations between our two countries."

"The president thanked me and asked me to convey similar warm greetings to our prime minister," Mikoyan reported.

"I can say we held an exchange of views on many matters of mutual interest. We did not conduct negotiations but tried to find the positions of our countries on many matters."

"This was not a negotiation but a useful exchange of views. At the end, the president, the secretary of state and we all came to the conclusion that the exchange was useful."

Soldier Identified In Fatal Car Crash

ABBOTSFORD, B.C. (CP)—The victim of a fatal traffic accident Friday 10 miles east of here today was identified as Sapper Bazile Dudyk, 27, of Camp Chilliwack.

Police said the man, apparently drowned when he was pinned below the waterline of a ditch by his car after it ran off the road.

'450 Will Be Executed' Castro Tells Followers

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro estimates 450 persons will die before the current wave of executions ends in Cuba.

Already 205 persons have been reported shot on charges of crimes against the people during the dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista. Cuban prisons recently held an estimated 5,000 to 6,000 more for trial on similar charges but some have been released and others given jail terms.

Castro gave his estimate of a crowd of about 15,000 in front of the presidential palace Friday night. He called for a rally of 500,000 persons in Havana next Wednesday to signify approval of the executions.

FIRED TO U.S.

Castro also said the rally should back up his request for the extradition of "war criminals" and other followers of Batista, many of whom have fled to the United States with large sums of money they amassed during their years in power.

The Castro government has said it will press for the extradition from the Dominican Republic of Batista himself, although there seems little likelihood that fellow dictators Rafael Trujillo will let Cuba have Batista back.

Also expected at the rally are demonstrations against any foreign intervention here. Cuban papers have given top play to Castro's warnings against meddling in the trials, particularly by the U.S.

The Cuban people generally have welcomed the trials and executions. Police broke up 200 persons in front of a police station Friday demonstrating for lynching of one suspect.

The actions have aroused sharp criticism in the United States and other countries, however. Castro invited foreign reporters and diplomats

ARNOLD HEENEKEY

Canadian Ambassador Appointed

OTTAWA (CP)—Arnold Heenekey, chairman of the civil service commission, has been appointed Canadian ambassador to Washington, it was announced today.

Mr. Heenekey will go to Washington in February. In accepting the appointment, he returns to a job he held from 1953 to April 1957.

The Washington post has been vacant since Norman Robertson left in October, 1958, to replace Jules Leger as undersecretary of state for external affairs in Ottawa.

Washington is considered one of the top jobs in the Canadian diplomatic circuit. It has seldom been left vacant for any long period and there has been some speculation here about the delay in finding a replacement for Mr. Robertson.

NATIVE OF MONTREAL

Mr. Heenekey, born at Montreal in April, 1902, has spent most of his diplomatic career in North America. From 1940 to 1949 he was clerk of the privy council and secretary of the cabinet.

Only Friday, in perhaps his final act as civil service commission head, he presented a report recommending the first major revisions in the Civil Service Act in 40 years.

Presumably completion of this report, on which he had worked for 18 months, freed him for the Washington assignment.

Mr. Heenekey has also served as Canada's permanent representative on the NATO council in Paris.

to attend the trials to check their fairness.

Newspapers in Brazil, Peru, Ecuador, Argentina and Costa Rica have called for a halt of the bloodshed. The Uruguayan representative to the United Nations appealed to Provisional President Manuel Urrutia to stop the killings. Other Latin American delegates at the UN were reported planning a similar appeal. U.S. Democratic Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon suggested in Washington that Castro invite UN observers to check the trial and execution methods.

Meanwhile, the Cuban government named Havana lawyer Ernesto Dihigo as Cuban ambassador to the United States.

It was reported in Washington that Philip A. Bonsal, now U.S. ambassador to Bolivia, will be the new American envoy to Cuba.

OL' VIK SAYS:
Russia may git th' West out o' patience, but not out o' Berlin.

A Just Judge

FOUR things belong to the judge: to hear courteously, to answer wisely, to consider soberly, and to decide impartially." So said Socrates; and though he spoke these words over 2,000 years ago, he might well have been thinking of the latest in the great succession of just and upright judges to be taken from us.

SILENUS

working life, up until a few weeks ago, he was hearing courteously, answering wisely, considering soberly and deciding impartially, and to the doing of these noble tasks he brought a lofty and penetrating mind.

On the Bench of the Court of Appeal he had no difficulty in maintaining the dignity which is born of complete competence.

Young lawyers trying their wings in that court were at first greatly impressed with the glacial impassivity of the Chief Justice; it put them firmly in their place. Later they gained confidence as they began to realize that their painful and halting efforts were being heard with exactly the same grave and courteous attention as the experienced eloquence of their seniors.

Many a sound, but stumblingly-presented legal argument of some frightened junior was deftly sorted out, summarized and passed on to the other judges in so unobtrusive a manner that the junior, if he were brash and superficial, thought he had done it himself.

But the thoughtful young lawyer knew better, and was grateful. Learning can be acquired, but wisdom comes from example. The Chief Justice was a great exemplar, and the quality of the Bar in British Columbia is the better for his years of patience.

The Socratic qualities possessed in so large measure by this man were to make their influence felt in spheres other than the law. As an arbitrator in disputes of all kinds he was called in to resolve the insoluble impasses which come from the collision of the immovable and the irresistible, and he never failed.

His name became a byword in the hurlyburly of large labor disputes, a sort of oracle in whom bitterly contending parties were both content to trust. In the railway snarls and the deadlocks of the forest industry his extraordinary judicial capacities were tested to the extreme. He was the court of last resort, and he never failed to provide a solution to every difficulty.

Now he is gone, leaving many monuments behind him. And the best is that he heard courteously, answered wisely, considered soberly and decided impartially.

LONDON LETTER

By WALLACE REYBURN

Robert Donat's Last Role

LONDON—Show business, a. Ingrid Bergman's latest, The Inn of the Sixth Happiness, has taken over where River Kwai left off as the most talked about film in these parts. For a variety of reasons.

First of all there's that revelation that Robert Donat struggled through the making of it just before he died—so that he could leave his three children some money. If he had not appeared in The Inn he would have died penniless. As it was he left about $70,000—his fee for the part.

Then there's the matter of the theme tune in it. The man behind this is Malcolm Arnold, the same composer who took the old Colonel Bogey March, wrote a counter-melody for it for River Kwai and made that number a huge international hit.

Having proved this was a good gimmick, he did the same thing with another old air, Knicker-knack, Paddywack Give a Dog a Bone, and used it for background music for The Inn. Now there's a flood here of Knicker-knack discs and it's rushing up the hit parade. And finally this rather sad quote from

Miss Gladys Aylward, the missionary on whom Bergman's part is based: "I understand the film has love scenes. I have never had a love scene in my life."

Canada's Bradens, Bernie and Barbara, are to have another crack at achieving the dream they've had for nigh on a decade now—scoring a joint success in a West End stage play. They'll be together in a piece called The Gimmick next March.

Notice that appeared outside the theatre where the British musical, Mr. Venus, was a dismal flop: "Closing Saturday—Opened in Error."

The U.S. song-hit, Beep Beep, has had to be revamped for English ears. The only way a song can get on the air in Britain is through the BBC monopoly and without regular radio airings it's difficult to get a tune really plugged.

The BBC refused to put Beep Beep on the air because it mentions the commercial products Cadillac and Nash. (For the same reason they banned Sing Brother Sing because Shredded Wheat was in the lyrics.)

So American recording artists have been brought back to the studios to sing it again, substituting "limousine" and "bubble car."

GOV'T EMPLOYEES SEEK NEW SALARY INCREASES

OTTAWA (CP)—Further requests for salary increases will be made to Prime Minister Diefenbaker when he meets officers of the Civil Service Federation of Canada Jan. 26.

The federation announced Friday it will place before the prime minister data on "serious differences" between civil service and industrial salaries and "request immediate action be taken to correct this situation."

Civil Service Changes Urged

OTTAWA (CP)—The civil service commission, recommending the first thorough revision of federal civil service administration in 40 years, is concerned over the growth of crown agencies outside its personnel control.

In a report based on an 18-month study by the three-member government personnel agency, the commission recommends a gradual assimilation of these "outside" agencies under its central authority.

Other recommendations in the report, tabled Friday in the Commons by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, include:

1. A form of collective bargaining, allowing spokesmen for the 180,000 civil servants to discuss their differences and demands with senior government officials under commission auspices. The commission then would make its recommendations to the government on salaries, working conditions and other points at issue.

2. Greater freedom for top government officials in handling their own staffs, thus eliminating red tape in transfers and promotions and transferring some of these duties now handled by the commission.

3. Veterans, who now enjoy full job preference over non-veterans, would be given an edge of 5 per cent of the attainable points for any one examination, to be chosen by the applicant.

4. Government offices doing business with substantial numbers of the public speaking both French and English should be staffed with adequately bilingual civil servants. The current provision is for staff having "knowledge and use of the language in the majority."

FIRST REVISION

The report is expected to lead to the first major revision in the Civil Service Act since its passage in 1918. The intention then was especially to eliminate patronage of one kind or another from the appointment of civil servants.

Legislation to implement the report's findings is expected to be introduced at the current session of Parliament. It seems questionable, however, whether final action could be taken this season in view of a heavy agenda of government business and the time needed to study the 160-page report.

Boxing Day Fire Claims 10th Life

SEATTLE (AP)—Wanda Marie Hollenbach, 8, whose mother and eight brothers and sisters perished in a Boxing Day farm home fire at nearby Auburn, died Friday night. She failed to recover from her burns. The mother, eight children, ranging in age from four to 18, were trapped on the second floor by the fast-spreading flames.

ISLAND VIEWPOINT

It's Our Money

SIDNEY REVIEW—When Sidney village council assembled for the first time this year the members of the council expressed strong criticism of the requirement that a budget be prepared.

Under the terms of the Municipal Act, explained Commissioner T. A. Aiers, chairman of the finance committee, the budget must be presented, although it is not used, its contents have no bearing on the year's financial operation and the nature of the budget is not revealed to the provincial government calling for the work.

This requirement that the village prepare an early and utterly valueless budget is an imposition and unless it can be justified by the government above the criticisms of the council, then it should be eliminated forthwith and the council permitted to spend their donated time on matters of significance to the community.

Well Deserved

COWICHAN LEADER—Lt. Governor Frank Ross, B.C.'s first citizen, has been among the best liked holders of his high office. His warm human approach and loyalty, his broad understanding of this province's economy and, associated with it, of the hazards of life for B.C.'s residents, have been demonstrated on many occasions.

It was therefore, a fitting occasion Saturday when the weekly newspapers of this province conferred a life membership on His Honor. As the voice of the small communities of this amazing province, and its equally amazing people, the weekly press prospered and fails with the rise and fall of the condition of its subscribers. It is a grass roots growth.

The weekly press has written a fitting postscript to 1958 and conveyed its highest honor upon a most deserving recipient.

Daylight Saving

COMOX DISTRICT FREE PRESS—The suggestion of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce tourist group regarding the extension of daylight saving time until the end of October is one which shouldn't be ignored or lightly discarded. Such a move, combined with the group's effort to have ferries from the U.S. running for that extra month and the offer of tourist accommodation organizations to reduce rates by 10 per cent after September 15, could make no little difference to the tourist-business.

And an extra hour of daylight in October wouldn't come amiss to year-round residents.

Certainly the fisherman wouldn't object to an extra hour in his boat, nor would other people who prefer outdoor recreation.

Nehru, Tito Set Neutral Co-Existence

NEW DELHI (AP)—India and Yugoslavia will continue their policy of co-existing with all East-West blocs but will join none, Prime Minister Nehru and President Tito promised Friday.

The two leaders issued a joint statement at the end of a two-day visit to the Indian capital by the Yugoslav president. The brief statement said: "Both leaders expressed determination to continue to do their utmost for the preservation of peace and for the solution of international problems by peaceful methods and negotiations in accordance with the principles of co-existence and non-alignment with any bloc."

Tito and his wife flew to southern India for a three-day sight-seeing tour before going on to Ceylon. They visited Egypt, Indonesia and Burma before arriving in India.

WENDY HARRIS

INTERNATIONAL ART PRIZE

Wendy Wins Fame at Nine

Not many artists win international acclaim at the age of nine. But fame has come early to Gwendolyn Harris, of 24 Sylvan Lane.

Wendy has won a prize from New Delhi, India, for a painting she did at the Art Gallery children's classes two years ago.

The painting was called "The Big Bad Wolf." Wendy had not bothered to take it home with her after the art classes were finished. Her picture was one of several left at the gallery, and curator Colin Graham, looking through them, was attracted by the ability which the artist had shown.

On an impulse he wrapped the picture up and sent it to Montreal, to be included in the Canadian entries for Shantkar's International Children's Competition at New Delhi, India. As time went by the incident was forgotten. That was nearly two years ago.

GUESTS 'BRAINWASHED' BY REDUNDANT FLOOD

Victoria's centennial celebrations were washed into limbo Friday night on a veritable flood of elegant redundancy.

A statistician in the audience noted that the phrase "Greater Victoria Centennial Committee" was used by after-dinner speakers 42 times; the word "Centennial," independently, 17 times; and "Greater Victoria," independently, 26 times.

Hands-down winner was chairman Geoff Edgelow, with 46 uses of these phrases. Runner-up was B.C. chairman Lawrie Wallace with 13.

FAIR TRIALS URGED

'Peace Society' Slaps Castro

The board of directors of Victoria's Peace by Peaceful Means Society has wired Fidel Castro urging him to assure Cuban war criminals a fair trial.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

New Glasgow returns Jan. 30. Sussexvale, Stettler, Antigonish, Beacon Hill, Jonquiere return Feb. 6.

Fraser, Margaree and Skeena return March 20. Crescent goes to Atlantic command.

Meeting in Victoria Friday night, the directors expressed strong feeling that Castro, who has had the sympathy of many "Canadians," is showing "little superiority" to the former regime in his present policy of hasty executions.

"Our organization thinks it is important to speak out against violent, brutal solutions to human problems anywhere in the world," said Glen Hamilton, chairman of the society.

"What is really amazing though, is that Canadians can be roused to indignation about the execution of several hundred people when we talk quite openly about a policy of massive retaliation which would involve the mass murder of millions of innocent human beings."

Study groups of the Victoria society are currently debating the role Canada could play in securing international peace.

Following a report by J. Haljan Ford, past president of the local United Nations Association, the directors have voted to affiliate with that organization.

Delegates will be appointed at the next general meeting.

Where was Wendy?

Recently a package arrived at the gallery addressed to Wendy Harris. It was from the School of Art and Design, Montreal Museum of Fine Arts. And shortly afterwards came a letter and a large book, sent from New Delhi.

Wendy had won a prize among entries from 63 countries, sent in by children from four to 16 years of age. And there in the book, with other illustrations, was a reproduction of her picture.

Then began a search for Wendy. No one remembered her or who her teacher had been. Calls to numerous Harrises in the telephone book were unsuccessful. Had she moved away?

Finally, Marian James, associated with the children's art classes and the city schools, checked with all the school classes Wendy might be attending.

And at Margaret Jenkins School she was found.

'GOODWILL MESSAGE'

Today she is the proud possessor of a prize and a book filled with pictures by children all over the world.

In a foreword to the book, Krishna Menon, India's representative to the United Nations, says: "I have little doubt that this publication, which will find a place in the homes, schools and nurseries in so many parts of the world, will serve as a message of fraternity and goodwill and inspire greater fraternity and understanding among peoples and help children to become more world-minded."

With which Wendy Harris fully agrees.

REDUCTION in sentence from dismissal of command to severe reprimand has been announced for Lt. Cdr. Paul F. Wilson, court martialled here last year in connection with the grounding of HMCS "Beacon Hill" in Vancouver Harbor while he was commanding officer.

In late February Lt. Cdr. Wilson will take command of another frigate, HMCS "Antigonish."

CITY STICKUP SUSPECTS HELD IN CALGARY

Two men have been arrested in Calgary in connection with a New Year's Day hold-up of Darling's Pharmacy Ltd., 624 Fort.

Calgary police arrested the pair for car theft and robbery and they elected to plead to the Victoria charge and similar charges outstanding from Vancouver and the Fraser Valley at the same time, police here said.

At about 7 p.m. Jan. 1 a man stuck "something" in the back of drug clerk L. M. "Dick" Shore after asking for a package of cigarettes.

The customer said "This is a stickup," ordered the clerk to the cash till, then to the back of the store, taking $105 with him when he left.

The cruise ship Se. Leilani, which made one call here a year ago Sunday, has been withdrawn from the Pacific Coast-Hawaii service.

Chamber of Commerce and tourist officials here had hoped the ship would again call at this port. A crowd of 3,000 welcomed her at Ogden Point on her last visit.

Owners of the ship, Hawaiian Texton Inc., say that revenue was not sufficient to overcome continuing losses.

Esquimalt Municipal Council will meet Monday starting at 7:30 p.m.

Victoria's Home Towners this week played for patients in the Provincial Mental Home at Colquhoun.

'Polite Jazz' To Open Season At Club Tango

"An Evening of Polite Jazz" will be presented in cabaret style by Victoria Jazz Society Friday, Jan. 30, as its first public performance of 1959.

Local jazz musicians will take the feature spots of the program at Club Tango, Oak Bay Avenue.

Tickets will be available from VJS members, who are reminded of the society's inaugural meeting of the year next Wednesday night.

Centennial 'Bequest' Bonus for Auditorium

By PETER MATTHEWS

Greater Victoria's booming Centennial show rang down the curtain at the Empress Hotel Friday night—but not before producing a $10,000 "encore" which brought cheers and applause from the enthusiastic audience of 200.

Vice-chairman Gerald K. Sammon broke the good news. Any monies left over from the celebrations, he said, would be put into a "Greater Victoria Civic Auditorium Trust Fund."

Centennial committee chairman Ald. Geoff Edgelow said today the amount would be "at least $10,000, and we hope for $12,000 or $13,000."

Sale of the colorful, but limp, civic balloons—described by Councillor Sammon as "our venture into space"—will produce more revenue for the new fund.

Reports are that the committee is dicker with some prospective buyers in Quebec. Announcement of the Trust Fund was applauded by Premier Bennett, Mayor Percy Scutrah, Reeves George Chagnon of Saanich, George Murdoch of Oak Bay and Alfred Wurtelle of Esquimalt, all head table guests at the wind-up party.

"This is just a start," Ald. Edgelow said today. "We already have indications that certain service clubs are considering pumping their project earnings into the Auditorium Fund."

Bennett Pledges University Here

A second major good-news bonus came when Premier Bennett declared flatly: "Victoria will have a university of its own."

His announcement also was greeted with cheers and applause.

The Premier did not amplify his remark.

Asked to respond to a toast to "the next 100 years," the Premier said:

"The past is behind us now we must look ahead."

"As recently as 1874 there were just 40,000 persons in this province."

"None can deny our future greatness."

The Premier joined many other speakers in paying tribute to Centennial chairman Lawrie Wallace, the recipient of two gifts during the evening.

Mr. Wallace, in responding, said that the "Greater Victoria Centennial Committee took second place to none" in its diligence and enthusiasm over the past year.

Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross, in a memorable speech in which he paid special tribute to his wife (see page 21), remarked:

"This province has been very kind to the Rosses."

Silent Tributes, Merit Awards

"We have worked with the most co-operative government any lieutenant-governor has ever had."

"We would like to express our gratitude and pride at the honor of acting as your number one citizens."

Silent tributes were paid during the evening to three men closely associated with the celebrations, who have since died: Hon. Gordon Sloan, former councillor; Charles H. G. Mann of Oak Bay and Norman "Cappy" Foster.

"Merit award" certificates were presented to the following:

Rev. F. E. H. James, Commodore H. V. W. Groos, Jack Lee—representing the Victoria Chinese community. Cmdr. D. L. McKnight; Mrs. Gwen

Carrier, Roderick Clack, the late Capt. Norman Foster; James C. Garne; Lt. John Graeme, Robert H. Hiscok, Harold E. Ker, Neville W. Life, F. A. E. Manning, Thomas W. Mayne, Cy Porter, Ian Ross, Mrs. Bessie Tang, Herbert Warren.

Centennial committee members honored were:

Ald. Edgelow, Coun. Sammon, W. Bart Carson, vice-chairman; Coun. Charles N. Nelles, vice-chairman; Ald. D. J. Proudfoot, secretary-treasurer.

Committee advisory board members honored were:

Coun. Sammon, R. T. Batey, W. B. Carson, J. Fawcett, W. A. Laudrum, Alan Klenman, Ald. D. J. Proudfoot and Peter Wong.

$112,000 Contract Let For New BCE Substation

A $112,000 contract for general construction of the new E. N. Horsey substation on Summit Street, has been awarded to Commonwealth Construction Co. of Victoria and Vancouver, B.C. Electric announced today. A contract of $37,000 for electrical installation was previously awarded to Hume & Rumble Ltd.

The former woodyard site has been cleared of waste, and surveys are now on the job. Situated in the Topaz area, the new substation will be built in stages, and will eventually supplant the Bay Street substation.

First phase of the development will place the new station in service this fall.

Approximately $700,000 worth of equipment, including a major transformer, is already on hand.

Initially the station will serve four circuits, which in the ultimate development will be increased to 24. As a step-down station, it will cut incoming voltage from 132,000 to 12,000 volts. Power will be fed to the new station from George Tripp substation in Saanich by underground cable. Ducts to carry the cable over the 2½-mile route were prepared last winter and installation of cable, with local workmen doing the job, is under way.

Jack Catterall, 4220 Quadra, told police someone broke into his car and stole a topcoat and six bottles of beer as the car was parked a half block away from the police station on Fisgard between 12:50 and 1:20 a.m. today.

SPEEDER'S FATHER RAPS 'DISCRIMINATION'

Thomas Accused of Anti-Labor Bias

Victoria labor leader Victor Midgley today accused Magistrate A. I. Thomas of "bias against labor" in his handling of a speeding case involving Midgley's son.

Mr. Midgley also blasted the magistrate for treating the youth "like a hoodlum," asking "Is Thomas in an ivory tower?"

The charges came during the third round of a furore sparked when Magistrate Thomas was accused of discrimination in giving alleged "preferential treatment" to Highway Minister P. A. Gagliardi.

The issue arose when Mr. Gagliardi received his driving licence back after 30 days of a three-month suspension following his third conviction in 20 months for speeding.

Mr. Midgley then launched into an angry attack of Mr. Thomas' treatment of the boy in court.

"My son was treated like a hoodlum and not allowed to say anything in court."

Mr. Midgley was very well dressed, with a fresh haircut, and well-mannered. He couldn't be judged on what he said as he was not allowed to say anything, I know, I was there."

Friday Magistrate Thomas treated "impartially on their merits," with no special consideration given anyone over another person.

"In each case I acted on the evidence available."

Mr. Gagliardi today denied receiving any preferential treatment, adding "I have never asked for any such treatment."

The Times learned that the charge against Mr. Gagliardi arose at 7 a.m. one morning when he was driving to Vancouver airport to catch a PWA plane.

Fog was rolling in and the minister put on speed to beat it and make his appointment. His speed was 55 m.p.h.

Subsequently, Mr. Gagliardi sent a deputy to court to hear the charge.

It is understood that the minister has refused a police escort when on public business and felt that he had been "behaving himself" since the first infraction 20 months ago.

At the time, Mr. Gagliardi pointed out that he had been driving for 33 years and had never been involved in a major accident.

HITCHHIKER ATTACK FOILED

Wrench 'Evened' 3 Against One

An attack by three hitchhikers on a Victoria motorist trying to do a good turn backfired violently when the motorist turned out to be a more than unwilling victim.

In Sidney court Friday, charged with assault with intent to steal, were three boys aged 17, 16 and 13 years. They were remanded to Jan. 24 for plea.

Arthur Richard Kay, 924 Market, a city merchant, told the story today of how he picked up three young men on the Patricia Bay Highway Thursday night.

"It was raining," he said, "and I didn't like to see these boys out in the weather, so I offered them a ride. They said they wanted to go to Telegraph Road, but when we got there it was still raining, so I offered to drive them to their destination. They directed me, and we finally stopped."

"For no good reason I happened to look in my mirror, and saw the shadow of an arm swinging at me. I ducked, but not quite fast enough, and got a good deal of the blow. As I bent forward my arm pressed the door handle down, quite by accident, but I took advantage of the chance to slide out of the car."

"I WAS BOSS"

"As I did, I grabbed a tire wrench that I keep beside my seat. When I stood up with that 'evened' in my hand, I knew right away I was boss, and that I'd have no trouble with them."

Mr. Kay said the youth in the back seat had struck him with a stapler. He put the two larger boys in the front seat with him, threatened them with the wrench, and took them to Saanich police at Royal Oak.

"I had made them empty their pockets first to make sure they had nothing else to attack me with," he said. "They didn't want to get into the car, but they didn't like the look of that wrench."

"When they didn't knock me out in the first place I figured they were rank amateurs, and that I wouldn't be in danger from them."

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Shampoo, Too, Even Though You Touch Up Your Hair

Many women who touch up their hair are likely to let too much time elapse between shampoos. Just because you are beguiled with the lovely new color do not neglect your usual good grooming habits. It is true that the indiscriminate use of strong bleaches and dyes may be drying, but well cared for hair can remain vital and healthy through years of cosmetic color changes. Touchups or not, do not neglect to shampoo your hair as often as is needed.

Whether you wash your own hair or have it done at a beauty salon be sure that it is brushed well first. This stirs up circulation and helps remove the first film of oil. Apply the shampoo only after your hair is completely wet. Massage the suds into your scalp as well as into your hair. Lather twice and rinse at least twice in between sudsing. You can tell when your hair is clean and free of soap when it squeaks between your fingers.

Very oily hair may require more suds and more rinsing than dryer locks. Massage before the shampoo, and in-between times as a daily habit, is beneficial to both oily and dry hair since this tends to normalize the little oil glands in the scalp. If your hair is dry, touch the ends with a bit of oil or hair lotion after it dries following the shampoo. Grey hair is extremely smart and becoming to many women.

However, the woman with grey hair must be even more careful about the care of her hair if it is to be attractive. The yellow tinge which some grey hair takes on is a problem for many women. This of course is most alluring. However a blue rinse will hide this. The trick is to use just enough to hide the yellow but not enough to make you appear blue headed.

Most of the beauty aids which produce such lovely results are quite simple, and good old-fashioned cleanliness is one of the best of all complexion and hair aids.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl who has one more year of college left. I'm in love with a reliable boy who has already graduated. He wants to marry me when I graduate but my parents object to him for a reason he cannot help. He has diabetes. He explained that his diabetes is "under control" but my parents think I am taking a big risk by marrying a diabetic. They tell me I will be a "diet cook" and a "nurse" for the rest of my life. I love this boy, Abby. What can I do?

DEAR ABBY: I have a 1936 nickel. Could you please tell me how much it's worth?

DEAR WILBUR: Five cents.

DEAR ABBY: At Christmas time my husband's boss gave our five-year-old boy a puppy. I know nothing about training dogs and my husband travels, so he's no help. This gift has been more trouble and expense than it's worth. He's spotted my carpet and is teething on the legs of my dining room chairs. My husband is afraid if we give it away his boss might find out. To make matters worse, our son is getting attached to the puppy. I wish you'd tell us what to do. Also, put this in the paper to wake up folks who mean well but cause others headaches by giving them a gift they can't

Thrift Shop Must Move

Discussion took place at meeting of the Junior Auxiliary to Royal Jubilee Hospital on the possibilities of finding new quarters for the Thrift Shop.

Run by the auxiliary for more than 25 years at a location in the Market Building, on Cormorant Street, the shop will have to move when the building is demolished in the spring.

Appeal has been presented to City Council in an effort to find suitable new quarters.

Plans were made to purchase three new tubular wheel chairs, for the emergency admitting office.

Date of the annual meeting was set for Feb. 2 at 2:30 p.m. Miss M. Bradley, medical social service director at the hospital thanked convener Mrs. F. G. Aldous and members who decorated the wards and corridors at the holiday season and the committee convened by Mrs. T. F. Rose and Mrs. F. Bartholomew that distributed flowers and gifts to both in and out patients. Mrs. Keith Dixon presided.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

STATIONERY FOR MEN

Is it correct for men to use engraved informals?

LOUISE DAVIS ANSWERS:

Men's stationery for personal letter-writing varies in size according to preference. The average small size is about 6 to 8 inches, single sheet. Some men prefer a larger size sheet, approximately 7 1/2 by 10 1/2 inches. Their choice depends on the size of their handwriting and on the average length of their letters. Some men like the printed name and address at the top. Whatever they choose in these ranges is optional and in equally good taste. However, for acknowledging formal invitations, plain stationery, about 4 by 5 inches when folded (or a little larger) is traditional and correct for men as well as women.

Veterans Use Many Books

Woman's Auxiliary to Veterans Hospital met recently with Mrs. Eric Young presiding. Mrs. G. Talbot reported giving out 229 library books; Mrs. A. G. Lane told of a successful bake sale. It was decided to donate to class 29 patients' suppers, two TV sets and five cribbage tables.

IN STEP WITH STYLE

By NONA DAMASKE

Up at Dawn for Early Shoe Show

Times fashion editor Nona Damaske is in eastern United States for the spring and summer showings of the Couture Group of the New York Dress Institute. She is writing of her experiences in this column.

NEW YORK—The rosy glow of a sunrise greeted me as I looked from my window at 6:30 a.m. No, I was not just getting in. I was getting up to attend the Capezio "Dewy Morn" breakfast.

Regular members of the Dress Institute begin showings at 8 a.m. but many auxiliary members tempt the editors out earlier or after five by presenting unusual and interesting shows.

Capezio shoes are fun—different, gay and soft as gloves. Highlight of this collection is the emergence of the short, shaped Queen Anne heel.

uses the flounced hemline over and over again.

HARRY FRECHTEL recognizes the beginning of a return to the fitted suit. Several coats used large patch pockets for the gal who wishes to tote her toy poodle along.

Many disc buttons... slender skirts with high rise Torador waistlines... skirts with wide box pleats swinging out from petticoats with a row of stiffening at the hemline.

Big news in the TRIGERE collection is the "skeleton" coat, an audacious cross between a coat and a stole. It is perfectly tailored, neatly fastened at the front and has nothing at all except a capelet at the back. "Allegro," is the name this designer gives her short, full blown sleeves which are somewhat reminiscent of old-fashioned lampshades.

OLEG CASSINI presented his usual gay and witty show. He is one designer who resisted the chemise and now, of course, can say "I told you so." He commiserates his own show and has a name for each design. For instance, a close-fitting sheath—"Shape well before using."

Luncheon with Ship 'n Shore was delightful. Michael Brown arranged a take-off on "The Pleasure of His Company" and we were honored by a visit from four leading members of the cast.

Charlie Ruggles gave his impression of a New York model. (I do wish I had a camera and could take pictures.)

Quote from LARRY ALDRICH: "Checks are the expression of spring in a woman's clothes." He uses a great deal of Forstman wool and in his solid color dresses there is a swing to very strong shades.

He likes the double-breasted suit and jacket and shows styles in two, four and six button. White wool girdled in gold kid, was used for two cocktail dresses.

The floating chiffon shirt-waist dresses are delightful, especially one of nutmeg brown with a large self fabric rose at the waistline.

LILY DACHE flew home from Paris to be with us for a cocktail hour. She is delightful, all sparkle and vivacity. Theme of her show was "tea and saki." Green tea, warm saki and fortune cookies were served by diminutive Oriental beauties in authentic costumes. The entire millinery collection had a definite feeling of the Orient and the pale translucent make-up which the models were wearing reminded me of the make-up used by Kabuki dancers.

SIDE LIGHTS

Believe it or not we have a six-foot, three-inch crew-cut male fashion editor attending press week. He is from Norfolk, Va., and how he gets any work done, I don't know. He is always being interviewed or televised. His wife came with him and she cannot even see one of the fashion shows.

That's a real switch, isn't it?

Will Stand Firm Eisenhower Tells Mikoyan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration has told Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan that the United States and its allies are determined to preserve their position and their rights in West Berlin.

This was disclosed today shortly after President Eisenhower conferred with the Soviet visitor for an hour and 45 minutes in his White House office.

Eisenhower and Mikoyan talked about the Berlin situation and several other issues in dispute between Russia and the United States.

Both agreed there had been a useful exchange of views. But the White House press secretary, James C. Hagerty, said no new proposals were made during the meeting. American officials had hoped Mikoyan might indicate a Soviet willingness to make concessions on Berlin and other German issues.

State Secretary Dulles and other officials participated in the conference in Eisenhower's office.

Dulles, it was learned, emphasized to Mikoyan in talks Friday that the U.S. has the solid support of its allies in its firm determination to remain in Berlin. He said the U.S. would not accept the substitute of the East German regime in East Berlin for the Soviet government insofar as relations between Russia and the Western powers are concerned. Mikoyan, for his part, was reported as saying that Premier Nikita Khrushchev definitely intends to go through with his proposals to turn over Soviet powers in East Berlin to the East German government if the U.S., Britain and France have not accepted his proposal to end the four-country occupation of Berlin by May 27.

Russia Wants 'Counter-Offers'

But Mikoyan said repeatedly that the Soviet government does not regard the fixing of this deadline as an ultimatum, according to qualified informants.

At the same time the Soviet official urged counter proposals from the Western side.

Hagerty said other subjects discussed today were disarmament, increased trade and freer exchanges of persons between Russia and the U.S.

The press secretary said there was no mention of any visit by Premier Khrushchev to the United States nor a visit of Vice-President Richard Nixon to the Soviet Union. There had been speculation about such visits.

Hagerty declined to answer directly when asked whether the subject of a possible summit conference or a four-power East-West meeting came up. He said: "I've gone as far as I can."

When the meeting in Eisenhower's office broke up, Mikoyan appeared briefly before reporters.

The Soviet deputy minister delivered a personal message from his chief, Nikita Khrushchev, wishing Eisenhower good health and "success on the road to better relations between our two countries."

The president thanked me and asked me to convey similar warm greetings to our prime minister, Mikoyan said. "I can say we held an exchange of views on many matters of mutual interest. We did not conduct negotiations but tried to find the positions of our countries on many matters. "This was not a negotiation but a useful exchange of views. At the end, the president, the secretary of state and we all came to the conclusion that the exchange was useful."

Plane Plunges Into Ocean

(Times News Services)

BUENOS AIRES—One man miraculously escaped death when an Argentine airliner crashed into the sea Friday night, killing 50 persons.

Robert Servente, his clothes burned and torn, was found four hours after the crash lying on the beach near the Argentine seaside resort of Mar del Plata.

All others aboard the plane were trapped and drowned when it sank in 75 feet of water about 150 yards from shore. By midday, searchers had recovered 34 bodies.

Servente could not explain how he managed to escape. He said there was no indication of trouble before the twin-engined Cuzco Comodoro crashed.

The plane split in two when it hit, he said.

The airliner was on a special summertime vacation flight from Buenos Aires to Mar del Plata, 240 miles to the south, and then to Bahia Blanca, another 260 miles west.

It was coming in for a landing at Mar del Plata in windy and rainy weather when it smashed into the ocean.

NO FOREIGNERS

The airline said it carried 46 passengers and a crew of five.

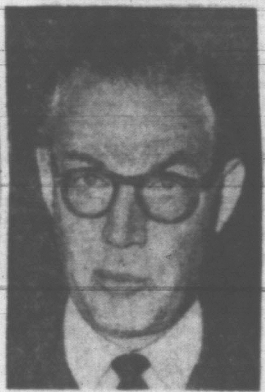

A caretaker at a resort park said the plane apparently developed trouble as it came down for a landing, tried to regain altitude and then plunged into the sea.

Among those on the passenger list were Eduardo Braun Menendez, one of Argentina's most famous scientists, and Dr. Jose Mezzadra, another well-known scientist. There was no immediate confirmation that they actually had been aboard.

The plane belonged to Austral Airlines.

ARNOLD HEENEY

... back to Washington

Canadian Ambassador Appointed

OTTAWA (CP)—Arnold Heeneey, chairman of the civil service commission, has been appointed Canadian ambassador to Washington, it was announced today.

Mr. Heeneey will go to Washington in February. In accepting the appointment, he returns to a job he held from 1953 to April 1957.

The Washington post has been vacant since Norman Robertson left in October, 1958, to replace Jules Leger as undersecretary of state for external affairs in Ottawa.

Washington is considered one of the top jobs in the Canadian diplomatic circuit. It has seldom been left vacant for any long period and there has been some speculation here about the delay in finding a replacement for Mr. Robertson.

Mr. Heeneey, born at Montreal in April, 1902, has spent most of his diplomatic career in North America. From 1940 to 1949 he was clerk of the privy council and secretary of the cabinet.

B.C. Civil Service Hails Move on Bargain Rights

Leaders of 11,800 B.C. civil servants were jubilant today over the possibility that collective bargaining, long sought by the B.C. government employees, may soon be a part of civil service administration in the province.

The prospect—voiced by officials of the B.C. Government Employees' Association—both in Victoria and Vancouver—came on the heels of an announcement in Ottawa Friday that a major overhaul and streamlining of the federal civil service is in the offing.

Included in the shake-up would be a form of collective bargaining, recommended by the Civil Service Commission.

"This is quite a morale-booster," said Dennis Heinekey, Victoria association official.

Although the streamlining recommendations will not affect the B.C. civil service, the administration in B.C. collective bargaining for federal civil servants would definitely affect us here.

"It would increase the possibility that the public would at last recognize that the civil service is not something like the army and entitled to the privileges of other groups, including collective bargaining."

Mr. Heinekey said "it would appear that the Conservative government has at last realized the civil service would become a more efficient and harmonious organization if it were granted the rights of other labor groups."

Association B.C. secretary Ed O'Connor declined to comment on the recommendations in general, adding, however, that "I don't believe any federal (civil service) shake-up would have any effect in B.C."

However, another Vancouver official of the BCGEA was "very hopeful we shall now get what we have been after for a long, long time."

"It is obvious collective bargaining must come to B.C.'s civil servants eventually," he said. "This may be the turning point."

He said "one of the most exciting recommendations" made by the Civil Service Commission was one calling for government salaries "to be comparable to those paid by private firms for similar classes of work."

"If this doesn't give the Bennett government the green light to pay B.C. civil servants what they are worth, then I shall be surprised," he said.

SUNSHINE MAYBE

Cloudy skies tonight will give way to partial clearing Sunday, weatherman William Mackie said today.

"We might even have some sunshine," he said.

The improving weather will follow the passage of a small disturbance tonight, he said.

Winds will be southwesterly at 15 miles per hour, and temperatures will range between 38 and 48 degrees.

'450 Will Be Executed' Castro Tells Followers

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro estimates 450 persons will die before the current wave of executions ends in Cuba.

"Already 205 persons have been reported shot on charges of crimes against the people during the dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista, Cuban prisoners of war, and other followers of Batista, many of whom have been sentenced to death with large sums of money they amassed during their years in power."

The Castro government has said it will press for the extradition from the Dominican Republic of Batista himself, although there seems little likelihood that fellow dictators Rafael Trujillo will let Cuba have Batista back.

Also expected at the rally are demonstrations against any foreign intervention here. Cuban papers have given top priority to the news of the government's decision to press for extradition of Batista.

The Cuban people generally have applauded the trials and executions. Police broke up 200 persons in front of a po-
